Suggestions regarding the publication of the Quarterly are welcomed.

Iowa City to host leadership workshop

The Delta Chi Headquarters Office in Iowa City, and the facilities of the University of Iowa will be the site for the second International Leadership Workshop. The workshop will be held Friday through Sunday, June 16-18.

The theme of the workshop will be "Fraternity by Objectives" as applied in the three main topic areas of chapter finance, rush and pledge education. Every chapter and colony is asked to send at least three delegates who will have major responsibilities in these areas for the coming school year, e.g., the "A", "D", Rush Chairman and Pledge Counselor. In addition, the opening of the conference will include an "Idea Fair" on many selected areas of specialized concern to chapters and colonies.

The workshop will not be a convention. There will be no Fraternity elections or constitutional decisions. The workshop will be an experience limited to learning and brotherhood. It will be staffed by professionals from the Fraternity's staff and universities in different parts of the country. The sessions will be intensive, educational and rewarding. Delegates will have free time to sample the restaurants, bars and cultural attractions of Iowa City along with their brothers from all over the continent.

Cost per delegate will be in the range of $20-30, including lodging, meals and materials, and some travel reimbursement will be available from the Fraternity. Details for the weekend will be mailed to Chapter/Colony "A"s in March. The staff is looking forward to seeing you this summer in Iowa City!

DELTA CHI HOSTS RECEPTION FOR GOVERNOR BOWEN AT NATIONAL INTERFRATERNITY CONFERENCE

The Delta Chi Fraternity hosted a reception for Indiana's Governor Otis Bowen, Indiana '39, at a recent meeting of the National Interfraternity Conference and Fraternity Executives Association in early December in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Brother Bowen delivered the welcoming address at the conference. The reception afterwards was hosted by the officers and staff of Delta Chi and was attended by Delta Chi alumni from the Indianapolis area and officers and staff from the other fraternities represented at the NIC and FEA meetings.

Brother Bowen spoke strongly in support of the fraternity system, and fondly of his experiences in Delta Chi at Indiana University. The Governor has been an active supporter of the Delta Chi chapters in Indiana and has visited Delta Chi chapters in other parts of the country as well.

Dear Brother Delta Chi:

Between the time I am writing this and the time you read my thoughts, I will have celebrated my tenth anniversary of initiation into Delta Chi. The night of February 15, 1968 is still fresh in my memory. The warm congratulations, the well wishings and the joy which was shared among all of us that night are cogent examples of the abiding affection and friendship which can exist among people of common purpose. And I know from detailed conversations and communications with older brothers in Delta Chi that those memories do not fade over the years. Brother Raymond Nicholson, DePauw '24, wrote recently to say that he had retired from his first career as a Personnel Manager with the Federal Government in 1969 when he reached age 70. He is now pursuing a Masters of Science in Counseling and hopes to earn his degree later this year at which time he will begin his second career.

Brother Nicholson also said, "My memories are still fresh of my initiation into Delta Chi at DePauw. On my 40th reunion in 1964, I again sat and talked with George and Jim Obear. We had a grand time." Hundreds of such communications cross my desk every year. After Homecomings, after reading issues of the Quarterly, after moving to new locations, brothers frequently write to find the names and details of old friends' lives. Or they write to say that they have met a new friend in Delta Chi during travels around the country and around the world.

With each of these communications, I am struck with the enormous impact that Delta Chi has on its members. From his earliest beginnings, Man, the social animal, has organized himself into community. The need for fraternity and for the community that it provides is inherent to our lives. Even those people who create reasons to dislike college fraternities are themselves affiliated with some exclusionary group which has selected its own membership. There is no way around it. A college faculty is certainly not an open group. Its members meet certain specifications and qualifications. It is a closed and exclusive set.

The distinction between other kinds of closed sets and fraternities is that fraternities make greater use of the group process. They create greater allegiance to themselves and to their host institutions than do any other kind of campus organizations. They instruct and enforce a set of values rather than a set of facts. And they are held together not by economic gain or policy; rather fraternity members adhere with the most powerful of all bonds, friendship.

The power of the organization is that it works in people's hearts and in their minds. Fraternity affords members the opportunity to discuss, disagree and speculate while living in dynamic interaction with people who challenge personal understandings and the limits of personal experience. The member of a fraternity is thus afforded the opportunity of stretching himself beyond the person he has previously been.

President Harry S. Truman, a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity, expressed the ideal form this personal and group growth can take. He said, "The crying need for this hour of history is for the genuine fraternity which will transform the necessities of the world neighborhood into the opportunities for world brotherhood. If war is to be averted while aggression is restrained, and if all people are to live in dignity, and without fear, then we, who know the true meaning of brotherhood must practice it."

It is the duty and obligation of our organization, which holds so much sway over the lives of its members, to meet that challenge and of our members to live lives that are truly exemplary of the kind of brotherhood which will better mankind.

I have been mindful of that challenge for ten years now. The organization to which we belong can have a positive impact for the good on ourselves and on the people around us. The fruition of that goal continues to be my dream. The disappointments of specific instances, the disagreements which invariably occur over budgets and pledges, the difficulty of introducing new ideas to a traditional program do not belie the validity of the dream. These difficulties only point to the spots where more work needs to be done. Improving humanity is not an easy task, but it's a rewarding one.

Fraternally yours,

Larry Audlehelm

Pride, history surround Hobart Chapter house

The Hobart Chapter occupies what may be the oldest house currently being used as a Delta Chi chapter house. This beautiful Greek Revival Mansion, located on historic South Main Street in Geneva, New York, was built in 1827.

The Geneva Historical Society, located just a few doors down the street at 543 South Main, maintains a file on all the houses of historic merit in the Geneva area. South Main Street in Geneva is a designated National Historical Area and the Delta Chi house is protected by the Geneva Historical Society. Included in the file on the house is a title search of the property dating back to September 10, 1795. The property changed hands five times before the house was built, and the prices include $1,000 when transferred October 8, 1804, $10 when transferred on March 11, 1826 and $950 when it was sold to Henry Dwight on November 10, 1827. The house was built for Dwight, and remained in his ownership until being transferred to a trustee following his death in 1862.

On May 2, 1870 the house was sold to Mrs. Sarah W. Webster and the house remained in the Webster family until February 18, 1920. As a result of this long association with the family, it is still known today as the Webster house.

Two owners later, the house was sold to the Geneva Alumni Chapter of the Delta Chi Fraternity, Inc. on August 3, 1965.

This summer, the house was repainted. The main body of the house is yellow, the columns and trim are white and the shutters are green. Before painting, repairs were made to the columns and woodwork trim and the house also has a new roof.

Letters of commendation have been received from both the Dean and President of Hobart College for the work that has been done on the house, and for improving the public image of Hobart fraternities. The house improvements will be of help in rush efforts and the renovated house is a source of great pride for all the brothers.

James M. Sabin, '78, "E"

'Herman' makes presence known at UNI

Delta Chi has at least one haunted house. The Northern Iowa chapter house in Cedar Falls, Iowa, is inhabited by 12 Delta Chi brothers and one "poltergeist." The ghost, affectionately named "Herman," is a former owner of the house, and supposedly hung himself in the attic stairway sometime before the house was moved to its present location at 2516 College Street, opposite the campus of the University of Northern Iowa.

Poltergeists are ghosts who make their presence known by harmless stunts and otherwise unexplainable noises. Herman's most common "manifestation" is to play with the attic lights. Brothers leaving the house will look up and notice the attic lit up. They go upstairs to turn the lights off, only to find them on again as soon as they are back out the front door.

Several brothers have had more dramatic encounters with Herman. Late one night, after a party, two brothers remained in the basement recreation room. Slowly at first, a large replica of the coat of arms that hangs on the wall began swinging back and forth, and suddenly started jumping all around! The two brothers can't say what happened next, because they decided the party was over and quickly left!

On another evening, two brothers were ready to go to bed, when they suddenly heard the sound of pots and pans being thrown around in the second floor kitchen. No one had been in the kitchen, but the pots and pans and dishes lay all over the floor!

Curt Petersen, the current "E", once had a close encounter of the Herman kind. One evening while alone in his room, the bedroom door suddenly slammed shut. Curt went out in the hall to see if someone were there, only to have his door slam shut again! Curt quickly decided he didn't like being there alone, and went out for the rest of the evening.

A few brothers even claim to have seen Herman's shadow creeping along the walls! Budding parapsychologists are invited to visit the Northern Iowa Chapter house to meet Herman, and decide if he really does live there, or if he is merely the product of the structural defects of a very old house and the active imaginations of our brothers at the University of Northern Iowa!

President Carter politely declines brotherhood membership

Jimmy Carter is one of the few presidents of this century that is not a member of a general fraternity, but Delta Chi has made a valiant effort to change this. With the cooperation of their friend, Georgia Congressman Bo Ginn, the Georgia Southern Colony extended an invitation to membership to the President.

Unfortunately, the President declined to join our brotherhood. In his reply, he writes,

"As much as I would like to join . . . , I nevertheless have to decline your kind offer since I have a policy of not accepting memberships in which I cannot actively participate. I know you will understand. I greatly appreciate your thoughtful words and I want to wish you and your brothers at Delta Chi all the best in fulfilling the high goals you have set for yourselves. Sincerely, (signed) Jimmy Carter.

Delta Chi achieves impressive exposure

Good public relations net results at Augusta

By Wayne Roberts

When Delta Chi first colonized at Augusta College, we had a big job ahead of us. Not only did no one know what a Delta Chi was, no one was interested. What had Delta Chi ever done for them? Many of the college administrators were anti-Greek. They would tolerate, but not support us. We had a two-fold objective: to prove to the college that Delta Chi could be a viable part of the college's life, and to let the community know who we were, and how we could also be a part of the community.

After our six week recruiting effort, a hitherto unheard of event took place. We held an open pledging ceremony. The parents of our pledges were invited and encouraged to attend. Following a banquet, former Field Secretary Dino DiBernardi spoke on the history of Delta Chi, on what we stand for, and why we wanted their sons to join. A question and answer period set many parental minds at ease. Witnessing the pledging ceremony proved to the few remaining skeptics that their sons were taking a hallowed vow, and not merely preparing to run naked through the campus, eating goldfish and screaming "Hail to Delta Chi!"

Next we had to win over the college. We started by talking to administrators to find out what needed doing on campus.

We tackled problems they either didn't want or were too large for them to handle. A mountain of books needed moving from the antiquated old library to a new multi-story complex. Working even in the rain, the task was completed in a week.

Spirit was lacking at home basketball games. Members of the Executive Council offered to decorate the gymnasium with banners and posters, most including a reference to Delta Chi. Other groups soon caught on and a general morale boost was felt throughout the campus.

More and more our name spread, with increasingly good connotations. When the list of projects prepared by the college had been exhausted, we made our own. Since we had proved our worth to the college, they had no objections to our sponsoring a Delta Chi "Super Teams" event. It was organized on campus, with invitations sent to every club, organization and high school in the area to enter a team in the competition. We contacted all the news media. It wasn't long before the whole town was talking about the event. Our press coverage was tremendous. Our work was rewarded in the spring when Delta Chi was voted the most progressive group on campus.

The press can be, and indeed should be your most vital tool for public relations. It's harder for these people to say "No" to publicity for a friend than to someone they see once a year with a hundred other groups participating in some fund raiser.

Once the door with the media is open, unlimited ideas are available. We even contacted a local television producer that has his own community affairs program, and invited him to attend one of our beer "busts." He liked the idea, and brought lights, camera and recording equipment with him. He filmed portions of the party and used it the next week on his show. The segment was titled "A New Kind of Bust Hits Augusta." Once again, Delta Chi had achieved impressive exposure.

Once you've established a good P.R. program, don't be surprised if it helps to reward your rush efforts. If a prospective member knows about you and what you do, persuading him to wear a pledge pin should take very little effort.

Use every possible chance to gain favorable exposure. What appears to be the most insignificant affair can turn out to be a strong public relations event.

Each Christmas, a local newspaper sponsors the "Empty Stocking Fund." Brothers from the colony went to the editor and offered to

Augusta Colony hosts Masters' open house

The Delta Chi Colony at Augusta College in Augusta, Georgia will be hosting an open house for any and all Delta Chi brothers April 4-7 during the famed Augusta Open golf tournament. There will be an open bar for Delta Chi guests for the four days, and parking will be available for Delta Chi's at the Colony house one half mile from the golf course. The Colony is located at 2323 Redwood Dr. in Augusta, and extends a welcome invitation to any and all Delta Chi's.

collect money for the project. The editor was elated, and elation became euphoria when we presented a Christmas Eve check for nearly $900.00! That effort paid off when a few days later, a front page article praised the unselfish time given by the brothers of Delta Chi.

In less than a year, the group that no one knew had been exposed to every resident of the area.

In preparing your public relations campaign, be ready to act on one idea while building your next. We entered a Delta Chi float in the city's Christmas parade. No other local Greek organization had bothered to enter the annual event. Our float, complete with brothers in Delta Chi jerseys, was seen by other 100,000 people. Again, we were filmed and appeared on television.

The job of public relations sounds like a lot of hard work . . . sometimes it is . . . but when the work load is shared among your brothers, the result is well worth the effort.

A good name brings with it a flood of requests for help from every organization imaginable. Try to avoid mass collections. Don't be lost in the crowd. They are asking for your help . . . what publicity will you receive?

A group sought the aid of the Augusta Colony. The group supplied the location, music and advertising. They kept all the proceeds. All we supplied was our name, and support. All advertising stated "XXX and the Delta Chi Fraternity present the first dance of the year." Don't be shy about suggesting a similar idea to people asking for your help.

And don't forget public service advertising (PSA). This is a free time given by radio and television stations as required by the FCC. Make use of this time. When your chapter has an undertaking that the public needs to be aware of, a simple post card with the facts about the event will suffice. A few days later, follow up with a phone call to the station's public affairs director. This will strengthen your announcement's chances of being used. Don't overload your stations with PSA material. Pick only the important events. Otherwise you risk a lackadaisical attitude towards your efforts.

If you find that distinctive events aren't happening, make them happen. Use old ideas and improve on them. The Augusta colony contacted the mayor and arranged a kidnapping. On the chosen day, at a set time, brothers and Chi Delphia entered his office and whisked him to a waiting car. He was taken to the chapter house. There he began making telephone calls to his friends and local civic groups asking that canned goods be brought to the house as ransom. We had informed the media that it was all in good fun, and the canned goods would be given to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for distribution to the needy. Involving a political figure made the event newsworthy. Delta Chi got radio, television and newspaper coverage. The incident made the AP and UPI wires. Obtaining the aid of a political figure is not as difficult a task as it might seem, especially in an election year.

By no means is this article a composite of all the tools of public relations that are available to your chapter. If anything, I've only scratched the surface. Once an effective program is instituted, your chapter can stand as a guiding light for others to follow.

Region 7 joins together for first 'Roll on the Knoll'

September 23, 1977 was the beginning of a very special weekend for Delta Chi Region 7. On that day, brothers from 5 chapters came together at the Cornell Chapter for a get together of a type that had never occurred before. It was time to "Roll on the Knoll."

The purpose of the weekend was simply to bring the brothers together for a good time. Joining the brothers from Gorham State, California State, University of Massachusetts, Hobart and Cornell were the Chi Delphias of Cal State and the sisters of Alpha Delta Eta sorority from Oswego State University. This collection of people provided all the necessary ingredients for what proved to be an enjoyable weekend.

The weekend began with a Friday night pizza and beer dinner. One of the highlights of the evening was the boisterous displays put on by each chapter as they arrived. Another highlight was a tour of the bars of Ithaca. Brothers and their guests stayed up well into the morning conversing, singing songs and generally "making merry."

Saturday morning was a time to recuperate, but by the afternoon everyone was raring to go. Cornell's chef exemplaire, Sunne Dae, literally cooked up a storm at an afternoon barbecue, and by two o'clock raindrops had chased everyone back inside. Everyone was kept busy with cards, pool and different types of games. A highlight of the afternoon was a presentation of a bottle to the Cornell brothers from the Chi Delphia of Cal. State Chapter.

The weekend was capped off with the big "Roll on the Knoll" party of Saturday night. The party featured kegs, plenty of Cornell coeds, and the slick tunes of the "Sandy Bigtree Band."

As people left on Sunday morning it became obvious from various comments that the weekend had been a great success.

"Roll on the Knoll" was something new to Region 7. Because chapters are spread far apart geographically, they only get together for business purposes. This was an attempt to use the Bond which we have in common for something more. We used the national organization for something more than a couple of meetings, and it worked very well. Eighty-four Delta Chi brothers and forty lovely young ladies came together to have a good time, and they certainly met their objective.

This party is hopefully the first of many of its kind throughout our region. It was made possible by the hard working Cornell committee of Brian Kilb '80, John Hehre '80 and social chairman Dave Read '78. We only hope that next year's event is even bigger and better!

The Educational Foundation

In response to some inquiries, we are pleased to take this opportunity to explain some of the mechanics of the Delta Chi Educational Foundation and its structure. Although it works in close harmony and cooperation with the General Fraternity, the Foundation is a separate legal entity, having been incorporated under the not-for-profit laws of Iowa in 1954. Any contributor to the Foundation (a contributor need not be a member of Delta Chi) automatically becomes a member of the Foundation. Membership in the Educational Foundation carried no special privileges; indeed, membership in the Foundation carries with it a moral obligation to support the objective of the Foundation, which can be summarized in that oft-quoted phrase "... to assist in the acquisition of a sound education."

Delta Chis who contribute, on a cumulative basis, more than two hundred dollars to the Foundation become Voting Members and have the right to vote on the election of Directors and other policy matters which may come before the annual meeting of the Foundation. The day-to-day administration of the Foundation is vested in the Board of Directors and its officers, all of whom serve without pay. (By tradition, the Executive Director of the Fraternity is also the Managing Director of the Foundation. The Foundation's overhead contributions to the General Fraternity cover a portion of his time, as well as office rental and general administrative support. Extraordinary expenses of the Foundation are not, of course, the responsibility of the General Fraternity, but rather of the Foundation.)

There are three levels of recognition which the Foundation accords upon its sustained contributors. Members of the Century Club are those who contribute, annually, at least one hundred dollars. The Delta Award is given to those who contribute in one year five hundred or more dollars. Currently the highest recognized level of financial support to the Foundation is the Chi Award which is bestowed upon those holders of the Delta Award whose cumulative giving exceeds one thousand dollars. The current holders of Delta Awards and Chi Awards are listed below:

Delta Award: Charles DeLong, Illinois '26; Victor T. Johnson, Purdue '32; Richard F. Kauders, Cornell '69; Dean S. Kingman, Illinois '37; Colonel and Mrs. LaVon P. Linn, Nebraska '38; George Obear, DePauw '31; Michael Pucin, Illinois '51; Kenneth Snyder, Illinois '30; Joseph M. Thompson, Illinois '34; and Dr. Marsh W. White, Penn State '20. Chi Award: Victor T. Johnson, George Obear, Michael Pucin, Ken Snyder, Joseph M. Thompson, and Dr. Marsh W. White. The Abracadabra Building Corporation also holds Honorary Membership in both categories as it has given several qualifying awards through the Educational Foundation.

It is gratifying to note the number of different chapters whose members have been recognized with these awards.

SOME FOOD FOR THOUGHT: What's in a word? If I were to ask five people to picture a chair, and then describe that "mental image" to the other four, we would probably find that we each had a different idea as to what a chair looks like. One person may think of a delicate Sheraton chair, another a leather wing chair. Still a third may picture a "beanbag" chair. Yet all would agree that a chair is for sitting (some more comfortably than others). Clearly then, a given word can connote different images for different people. The same is true for another word which is closely related to the Fraternity experience we all share: RUSH.

When was the last time you were involved in a RUSH situation? I don't necessarily mean a fraternity rush; but a rush setting in the more general meaning of the term. A broad working definition of a rush situation might be a gathering of a group of people, most of whom share something in common, but some of whom are "outsiders." Thus, a rush situation may be a cocktail party for the couple which just moved into the neighborhood; or a small group of your fellow country club members you have invited over to meet a friend who you hope to propose for membership.

When we were undergraduates, rush became the first exposure we had to this unique "peer:non-peer" social situation where something more than friendship was at stake. But reflect on your recent and numerous "peer:non-peer" situations since graduation. You'll realize how much you've learned since those college days.

We are no longer dependent on conversational crutches, like the standard questions "what do you do?" ("what is your major?"), or "where are you from?" ("what's your hometown?"). Instead we are aware that often these stock questions are a sign of shallowness and insecurity. It's natural to be curious about people you meet, but there are more effective ways to convey your genuine interest.

Think back upon your undergraduate days, and fraternity and rush. Reflect upon how much you have learned about yourself, about others and about the dynamics between the individual and the group through that unique Greek experience. And show what that opportunity has meant to you by making a donation to the Delta Chi Educational Foundation. Your gift will help further one of the four pillars upon which Delta Chi was founded and grows today "... to assist in the acquisition of a sound education."

A FINAL NOTE: With the dreaded "date of reckoning" of April 15 upon us we all seem to complain about taxes. It has been said that there is nothing you can do about taxes or death. We don't have any solution for the latter, but we do have a hint for the former. Gifts to the Delta Chi Educational Foundation are tax-deductible contributions for Federal Income Tax purposes (our letter of exemption from the Internal Revenue Service is dated March 14, 1958). It's too late to do anything about 1977; but not 1978. Why not make a Tax Deductible contribution to the Foundation today? You'll feel good twice: now, because you'll help support the educational activities of Delta Chi, and next April 15, when you realize how little that gift really cost you.
