You Can Change the World Tomorrow, Today.

Recently, I traveled to my 88th Delta Chi chapter. One thing that has become crystal clear during my time on the road is that it is very rare to find a great chapter that lacks quality alumni support and advising. For example, in 2016-17 we had five President's Cup Award-winning chapters that all benefit from a strong level of alumni advising support. Likewise, it is equally unusual to find one of our lower performing chapters with outstanding alumni involvement and a strong programming partnership with their alumni advisors. Herein involves a great challenge as I see it.

Over the last number of years, our nation has experienced a rebirth of community and civic involvement. In neighborhoods, individuals are reaching out to help one another. These otherwise strangers, linked only in their common bond as Americans, are making that extra effort to improve the greater good of our society. Does all of this sound familiar? It should. This new energy we have seen in our country exemplifies the purposes and reasons for why I am a Delta Chi and what our International Fraternity is all about.

We are the individuals helping one another, linked through a common bond, to improve the general welfare of our communities, and society, while also improving ourselves as individuals. This is what it looks like to truly live out our values found in our preamble and our ritual.

I hope that you will agree with me when I say that over the years, Delta Chi, on so many levels and in countless ways, has given a lot to me. Now, while I am still receiving these uncountable benefits, I am always keeping my eyes open for opportunities in which I can give something back to our fraternity.

When I say "give something back," I do not necessarily mean financial donations. For the three most important things a person can give an organization is his time, his financial resources, and his overall commitment. I would like to provide you with a challenge that includes a very interesting opportunity to serve some incredible college men.

All of us can think of the powerful impact that an active alumnus had on our undergraduate fraternity experience. That works both ways – being an active alumnus helping out undergraduates has its own rewards as well. Today, there are chapters throughout North America who are in need of just such a group of men to help serve on their Alumni Board of Trustees, House Corporations, or as a "BB."

Serving on an ABT or House Corporation is NOT a major time commitment. Most boards met approximately three to four times a semester.

Personally, I can see the impact that a few alumni have the potential to make on our chapters. This is an impact that will be felt and greatly appreciated by the undergraduates for many years to come. This is an impact that may impress upon them the importance of staying active in Delta Chi.

In general, the ABT supervises all financial dealings of the organization, reviews general policies, and provides advice in all areas of chapter operations. The House Corporation takes the lead on providing housing opportunities for our undergraduate members.

There are several positions available on the ABT, which include President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer/Financial Advisor, Recruitment Advisor, New Member Education Advisor, and Scholarship/Foundation Advisor. In each case, you would be able to meet and advise an undergraduate fraternity leader as to how he can better perform his duties. Likewise, there are numerous positions available on House Corporations.

I look forward to hearing from you if you are willing to accept this challenge to serve Delta Chi and directly strengthen our chapters. Keep in mind that you can also be an involved Delta Chi by attending alumni events for your chapter, Regional Leadership Conferences, Alumni Chapter events in your area and Convention. If you have any questions about service, please do not hesitate to contact me at Ottomatic98@hotmail.com or our Fraternity's Director of Alumni Engagement, Alex Brown, at abrown@deltachi.org.

Lastly, the Fraternity recently unveiled a special recognition badge in past editions of the Quarterly for "BB"s and ABT Presidents, and now we have created a new badge to honor those brothers who have celebrated 25 years or more of affiliation with the Fraternity. This new badge is available from IHQ and may be ordered by calling 319.337.4811.

EMERGING LEADERS ACADEMY

JUNE 15-18, 2017
CORNELL UNIVERSITY

Delta Chi has had a wealth of resources and opportunities for members to help develop themselves as leaders and to gain knowledge to help them lead their chapters and colonies for quite some time now. From the “A’s” Academy, which has been instrumental in the success of chapter presidents, to the biennial Convention, which provides opportunities for all members to develop themselves, Delta Chi prides itself on investing in members across the board. In the summer of 2017, the Fraternity took this a step further and decided to make an investment in younger emerging leaders. Held at our founding place, Cornell University, the first Emerging Leaders Academy, led by Director of Education and Leadership Programs Cat Sohor and a team of expert facilitators, was a great success and further supported Delta Chi’s 2021 Strategic Plan by strengthening the continuum of leadership programs the fraternity offers.

The three-day leadership program is crafted to help attendees focus on themselves as leaders. While, of course, it is important that the men attending return to their chapters and colonies with the ability to make change, the program takes a more personalized approach at leadership. The Emerging Leaders Academy attendees focus on understanding who they are first, before leading others, as the program is designed to help attendees become more confident in their personal leadership styles.

The first day of the program engages attendees in “focusing on self.” The curriculum on this day is designed to give each emerging leader a better understanding of his personal leadership style and facilitates discussions around who each man wants to be as a “Serving the fraternity as a facilitator at Emerging Leaders Academy was a great way to mesh my training and education with that of giving back to the fraternity. I’ve served as a facilitator for many other fraternities and sororities leadership experience, yet this one was special since it was my own. Getting to use my talents and skills to enhance the foundation in which younger membership are able to learn and grow brings with it a true sense of brotherhood. I am very appreciative for the opportunity to contribute to the future of the fraternity but even more so grateful for its investment in the future leadership that will show the courage needed to be a leader in the fraternity and sorority industry. I think investing in the leadership development that is carefully crafted by industry professionals only makes us greater in the long run. It was once said that ‘a rising tide lifts all boats’ and I believe that programs such as this serve as many drops in the tide to rise not only Delta Chi but many other organizations to maintain relevancy in the lives of today’s collegians and alumni.”

~ James Crawford, Wilmington 2010

“The Emerging Leaders Academy gave me many great tools that I can now use and share with my colony. It was a great time getting to meet my brothers from around the world and to learn how they do some things differently than we do. The Emerging Leaders Academy definitely gave me tools to be a better leader, not only within my colony, but also in my day-to-day life.”

~ Sean Whitmore, Edwardsville 2020

DELTA CHI
EMERGING LEADERS ACADEMY

"I was really excited to hear that Cat [Sohor] was working on an Emerging Leaders Academy, and that it was starting this summer. I was even more excited when Cat asked me to support the first ELA as a small group facilitator. Having volunteered for other leadership programs, I was happy to see Delta Chi working to support and develop new and emerging leaders within the Fraternity. I think the ELA offers participants a unique experience to develop and connect their leadership skills to their values and the values of the Fraternity. The ELA has the potential to serve as a key component to the cohesive suite of educational and leadership programming offered by the Fraternity."

~ Drew Kerwood, West Chester 2009

leader. Moving into the second day of the program, attendees focus on leading others, spending the morning putting skills into action at a high ropes course, and later following up with discussions about vulnerability, exploring personal identity and how it relates to leading others, and confrontation skills. The third and final day of the program allows attendees the opportunity to take everything they have learned about themselves and how to lead others and to focus on implementing it in Delta Chi. Attendees focus on moral courage, discuss the Ritual as a call to action for leaders, and create a leadership vision and plan to inspire their future leadership in Delta Chi.

The program was an overwhelming success in its inaugural year, and we look forward to future Emerging Leaders Academies to come! 🏰

Q&A WITH Cat Sohor

Director of Education & Leadership Programs for The Delta Chi Fraternity

Cat Sohor is the staff member behind developing the Emerging Leaders Academy. She spent many months developing the curriculum, scouting out locations, promoting the program, and recruiting volunteers to help facilitate.

Explain the process of creating a program like the emerging leaders academy.

"During the discussions about the Strategic Initiatives, we saw that the Fraternity did not currently have any programs that were specifically geared towards our newest leaders, so we decided to create one. I assembled a workgroup and we discussed current trends in leadership, knowledge gaps that we see in our young leaders, and examined what content would fit into the continuum of leadership programs."

Why do you think it's important for Delta Chi to continue to invest in its emerging leaders?

"Investing in our young leaders is an investment in our future. If we can help men explore their identities and their leadership styles, they are better suited to make the tough choices when they need to the most. Fraternity men are called upon to make difficult decisions that can be unpopular at times, but if we help these men develop better leadership habits, we can ensure a brighter future."

How can someone support leadership programs like the ELA?

"People can support our programs by encouraging men to attend. The program is only successful if we have the right men attending. Financial support is equally as important, as it helps to ensure that we can expand our programs and reach a greater number of members."

ALUMNI CHAPTER SPOTLIGHT

Nashville

Each year, hundreds of Delta Chi brothers graduate from chapters and colonies from across North America. They leave their alma maters and go on to start families, begin their careers, and embark on a new stage of their lives. While some of our members remain in the same city as their college or university, others head out across the globe. Sometimes, those fond memories of Delta Chi can feel quite distant. But across North America, our alumni members are joining together and finding ways to keep the bond of brotherhood as strong as ever.

“I moved to Nashville for work about a year ago, and my wife and I knew no one in town. I really wanted to plant roots here, and I’ve never had closer friends than my brothers. So I started looking for Delta Chis in Nashville,” shared A.J. Ward, USC 1996. “I needed a greater sense of community, even family, here in Nashville.”

A.J. reached out to Delta Chi International Headquarters for more information about brothers who might be in the area and ways they could remain engaged as alumni. He then began reaching out to brothers about connecting and starting an Alumni Chapter.

“It turned out that there were over 300 of us in the Greater Nashville area! And when I sent that first email out, I quickly received a response from over 100 of them, excited to hear they had brothers in town and to get involved in one way or another.” A.J. began working with other members, and they started the Nashville Alumni Chapter in April 2017.

Alumni chapters are fully recognized organizations of Delta Chi. Rather than being connected to a college or university, alumni chapters can be chartered anywhere that our members reside. This allows any member of Delta Chi, regardless of his undergraduate institution, to come together and build a sense of community.

“I was drawn to the prospect of having that camaraderie again. A couple of times in my life, I have been fortunate to have experienced that. One was Delta Chi and the other was the military. The prospect of having that here again was very appealing,” said Jeff Rice, Eastern Illinois 1986. “I know what it is like to move to a new city and not really know anyone. What better way than to reach out to some Delta Chi brothers? It was amazing how many of us were here in this area, and we didn’t even know it.”

Like our undergraduate groups, alumni chapters can host a wide variety of activities for their members. While

Interested in starting an Alumni Chapter in your area?

The process is easier that you might think:

1. CONNECT with alumni in your area to promote the idea of an alumni chapter to generate interest
2. CREATE a petition for chartering with the signatures of at least ten alumnus members who will be residing or working in the area where the alumni chapter is being founded (an example petition can be found online)
3. PAY a $150 chartering fee (with annual $100 chapter dues for administrative costs)
4. SUBMIT materials to the Board of Regents for final approval.
5. VISIT deltachi.org/alumni-chapters for more information

the Nashville Chapter is just getting started, it has hosted card games for brothers and attended live concerts in the city. Its first major group event was a day out watching the Sounds minor league baseball team, followed by a dinner for members and their families. The group is also looking at raising money for a philanthropy this fall with a “No-shave November” challenge.

Whether attending and voting at Conventions, providing networking and professional development opportunities, or hosting events that foster a lifelong bond, our alumni chapters provide something unique to all members. Just like our experiences in our undergraduate groups, running an Alumni Chapter takes some effort. A.J. certainly doesn’t seem to have any regrets. “It’s early in our history as an alumni chapter, but easily the response received to the idea of starting an Alumni Chapter was impressive. It is clear Delta Chi means so much to so many of us, even if we’re from different chapters and different eras.” If you are in the Nashville area and are interested in getting involved, you can reach A.J. at ward.aj24@gmail.com.

Currently, there are 27 Alumni Chapters across North America. The most recently chartered group, Alberta, is the second international alumni chapter in Delta Chi history. The opportunity for growth of alumni chapters is virtually limitless. From college towns to major metropolitan cities, from area chapters to international destinations, our alumni chapters can be there to support our brothers and allow us the chance to live out the brotherhood of a lifetime. For more information about alumni chapters, finding alumni in your area, or how to engage with Delta Chi as an alumnus, contact Delta Chi’s Director of Alumni Engagement, Alex Brown at abrown@deltachi.org.

Delta Chi’s Alumni Chapters are growing! If you’re a Delta Chi living in any of these areas, be sure to reach out and connect with your Brothers. Don’t miss out on this wonderful opportunity to be involved!

Our New House

Our 2nd House
535 S. Ridgewood

Embry-Riddle? What's that?

If I had a nickel for every time I've heard that, I'd be retired as I write this. We aren't one of the most well-known or oldest chapters in existence, but we've been pretty busy in our 50 years. Our chapter is rooted in a local fraternity named Pi Sigma Phi, which was founded in Daytona Beach in November of 1967. Three years later, as fate would have it, the Pi Sigma Phi brothers met a contingent of University of Florida Delta Chi brethren on the beach during spring break. This group was led by then "A" Fred Leonhardt. Fred invited the Pi Sigma Phi men to road trip to Gainesville for a tour of their new house. A bond quickly formed, so Fred invited the Pi Sigma Phi brothers to affiliate with Delta Chi.

By this time, Pi Sigma Phi President Ray Loehner and Treasurer Reid Swartz already had secured what would become the first chapter house at 427 S. Ridgewood. This house was the catalyst for a strange relationship with that particular stretch of U.S. 1. I say strange, because we would later move across the street and down the block to 535 S. Ridgewood, until our final move back across the street to 538. The neighborhood was a bit different, and it certainly didn't get any better over the years, yet this is the house that holds my memories. Putting it generously, it was an older structure, and through the 80's and early 90's, there almost always was a construction project underway. It's said that necessity is the mother of invention; that was never truer than during these times. We were a handy bunch, as a brother recently reminded me. Today, it could be a challenge to find collegians capable of installing an air conditioner or crafting the elaborate, babbling brook water feature we built. These home improvements were the vision of alumni initiate and Order of the White Carnation (OWC) Brother, Greg Nelli. Greg also served as president of our Building Corporation, and it was under his leadership that we paid off our house and built or bought two more houses on adjacent property. By 2005, those houses started to show their age and fell into disrepair. Accordingly, albeit with heavy hearts, the Building Corporation demolished the properties and eventually sold the raw land.

The intervening 12 years were fraught with debate and indecision about what we should do to reestablish a house for our chapter. We also endured a series of false starts and "ground breakings" that never developed traction. In 2014, a dedicated and indefatigable group consisting of Ed Fusco, 1973 (OWC), Boyd Kelly, 1992, John Mazur, 1976, Kenny McCoig, 2002, and Spence Price, 1971, decided to make one last push to rebuild. As a local resident, much of the heavy lifting fell to John Mazur. He persistently darkened nearly every office door at the University Administration building. The Honorable John Mica, Florida 1967, was our "silver bullet" when Mazur needed extra muscle. It required that degree of determination to get approval from the University to build on campus and lease the land on which to do it.

Now that we had land, we needed a plan and money. We had some money invested from the earlier sale of our property, but we needed much more. Taking next steps forward, we formed a campaign committee, retained an architect and builder, and hired a fundraising consultant. This is where things began to get interesting. We established a campaign goal of $650,000, which was the absolute minimum we needed to move forward. Little did we know that a truly Herculean task was at hand. We now had to convince our Brotherhood to help. Thanks go out to the generosity of a committed group of men from the early 70s and one from the early 90s – Dave Cloutier '92, Ralph Fabozzi '73, Ed Fusco '73 (OWC), Jimmy Hunter '75, and Spence Price '71 – who all stepped forward with pledges of $50,000 each. With $250,000 in hand, we were off and running. But it was heavy going, and two years of hard work helped us to exceed our goal by $80,000. In fact, 17% of our chapter membership raised $730,000, with many undergraduate brothers donating as well. Brothers from other chapters also dug deep. The brotherhood is strong in us. I'm proud to call you all Brothers.

To those who said it would never happen, we proudly announce that our house is built with undergraduates moving in in August! As a fitting end to this story, remember Reid Swartz from Pi Sigma Phi days? Reid graduated prior to being initiated as a Delta Chi. Bad planning, right? Well, we decided to rectify this hole in our history, and we're proud to be initiating Reid into the Bond during our celebration in October. See you in Daytona!

In the Bond,

Dave Cloutier

Founders' Day Message

Brothers who have been around for a while will remember that for many years, Delta Chi's slogan was "the brotherhood of a lifetime." We still occasionally see this in print or hear brothers speak of lifelong relationships. More recently, the Fraternity's 2021 Strategic Plan outlined an effort to encourage lifelong engagement of our alumni.

To see Delta Chi's 2021 Strategic Plan, visit <http://deltachi.org/si2021>

As we reflect on Delta Chi this one-hundred and twenty-seventh Founders' Day, it's easy to imagine that our 11 founders likely were not considering the brotherhood of a lifetime on that cool autumn day in central New York. While they were thinking of their time at Cornell, and likely some of those who would follow in the next few years, it is hard to believe that they envisioned a Delta Chi more than 125 years (and chapters) later. Yet those founders built the foundation for what we experience today at campuses across North America, in alumni gatherings, online groups, phone and video conferences, and in the so many other ways we interact after greeting one another with the title "Brother."

A very successful businessman recently stated that his next goal was to live beyond his body. In essence, he wanted to leave behind something that would last and give to others well after he was gone.

This is exactly what our founders did for us. When they created Delta Chi, they put in place the values, goals and governance to allow the organization to grow and evolve with the world around it. Soon Delta Chi expanded beyond Cornell, then beyond the Northeast. Eventually it crossed borders into Canada and nearly every U.S. state.

Delta Chi evolved to endure through one world war, then another. Our fraternity changed to accommodate students who weren't studying law, then races, ethnicities and other boundaries set in man's mind. Throughout, our values of promoting friendship, developing character, advancing justice and assisting with the acquisition of a sound education have been at the core of who we are, what we do and where we do it.

Delta Chi's founders gave us this. Each of our chapters' and colonies' founders then helped to do the same, while reinforcing Delta Chi's values as we expanded from one campus to the next. Unfortunately, Delta Chi had to leave some campuses when we couldn't be held to the standards that our founders, and later our subsequent members, set.

One hundred twenty-seven years later, what are we doing to live beyond our bodies? What are our chapter members doing to ensure that Delta Chi lives beyond their time on campus? What are our alumni doing to ensure that their chapters are there to return to when they visit and to support Delta Chi regionally, internationally, and wherever we may be once we've left the campus where we were first associated with and initiated into this brotherhood of a lifetime?

There's no doubt that many of us can feel confident in saying that Delta Chi provided for us during those foundational years when we were in college. Delta Chi offered friendship and family. The Fraternity provided an environment for involvement, learning, social skills, and leadership. Like so many things in life, those who gave the most were among those who received the most in return. Again, our founders couldn't have imagined the profound positive effect they established.

Now, we are the custodians of Delta Chi. It's our responsibility to ensure that everything we had to gain (and then some) from both our undergraduate and graduate experiences is here for future generations of Delta Chi. In doing so, we must retain the flexibility that those before us used to keep this thing we call fraternity relevant as campuses, education, and the world evolved.

What are you doing to help do this? What can Delta Chi do to help us all meet and exceed this challenge? This brotherhood of a lifetime has grown to include over 90,000 living members. Imagine what we could do together to reinforce those values of friendship, character, justice and education, both within our fraternity and with all of those with whom Delta Chis interact.

On this Founders' Day of 2017, reflect on all that Delta Chi has evolved to give to you, so many other brothers, and to society in general. We're all very fortunate to have experienced this opportunity. We are proud of what Delta Chi has become, where it is going, and to call each and every one of you our brothers.

Faternally,

About the Alumni Directory

The Delta Chi Fraternity has contracted with Publishing Concepts to verify the accuracy of data currently on file. PCI is a trusted partner of Delta Chi and is strictly using the alumni contact information for this project only.

Having current and correct information is an essential part of our effort to expand and support our alumni member experiences. PCI began mailing postcards and sending e-mails to alumni on the Fraternity's behalf in late May. The communication requests alumni to call a telephone number to verify or update your alumni profile. You are under no obligation to purchase anything. Verifying your profile information will help strengthen the Delta Chi alumni network and provide important connections to career and personal networks.

Awards & Recognition

It is the Fraternity's goal to recognize and promote the achievements of our chapters, colonies, alumni and advisors on a chapter, colony, regional and international level. The awards and recognition program allows chapters and colonies the opportunity to showcase their outstanding or improved performance over the past academic year in each of the Fraternity's core competencies. Individual awards recognize the brothers and friends of Delta Chi for their outstanding service to the Fraternity in a variety of capacities.

To be eligible for awards, chapters or colonies must be current on all bills to the Fraternity as of June 1 and must not be on any level of risk management sanction during the year of awards consideration.

Once all applications are received, the Fraternity staff objectively evaluates each and every application before recognizing the efforts of our chapters and colonies based upon Delta Chi's eight core competencies for success:

- Advising & Governance
- Alumni Relations
- Financial Management
- Housing
- Involvement
- Manpower
- Membership Education
- Scholarship

There are two categories of awards given for each core competency. The Excellence category denotes a complete mastery of that competency; winners in this category fulfill the many components of each area and often go above and beyond to reach new heights of operations. The Achievement category recognizes chapters and colonies that have made significant improvements in this area of operations. 🏆

Delta Chi of the Year

James Conway, Cornell 1986

James H. Conway, MD, FAAP, is a pediatric infectious disease specialist who works both domestically and globally with programs designed to improve the lives of children. His projects largely involve training local professionals in the recognition and treatment infectious conditions and improving systems for prevention, particularly through strengthening immunization programs. Dr. Conway has been involved with long-term field programs in Thailand, Kenya, and Ethiopia. He also works with UW health science leaders to develop programs and partnerships for clinical education and outreach around the world.

Dr. Conway directs the Extramural Clerkship in International Health for medical students (Senior Medicine 882-937) overseeing worldwide placement and providing academic preparation and orientation. He co-directs Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Global Health & Disease (PHS 810-644), and has been a collaborator in designing and leading the associated Thailand field experience summer course since 2006. He is a member of the MPH Program faculty. Dr. Conway is a Fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics, serving in the Sections on Infectious Diseases and International Child Health, and he received an AAP Special Achievement Award in 2009 for his immunization projects. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Wisconsin AAP, where he serves as Chair of the Committee on Immunizations and Infectious Diseases, and represents the WI-AAP on the Wisconsin Council on Immunization Practice. Prior to joining the faculty in Madison, he served on the faculty at the Indiana University School of Medicine from 1997-2005, where he founded the International Adoption Clinic and served as Associate Program Director for the Pediatric Residency Program. A native of Buffalo, NY, Dr. Conway attended Cornell University undergraduate and medical school and completed a Pediatrics Residency at Northwestern-Children's Memorial Hospital and a Pediatric Infectious Diseases fellowship at The University of Colorado-Children's Hospital in Denver. Dr. Conway's primary area of interest is with immunization program improvement, and he currently has projects investigating influenza transmission and prevention, the effectiveness of pertussis vaccines, and understanding issues of vaccine hesitancy.

Distinguished Delta Chis

This award recognizes significant achievement in an alumnus' profession or outstanding civic service while upholding the values and ideals of the Fraternity. This award may be awarded posthumously.

Elliot Shubert, Kansas 1962

Brother Shubert served in the U.S. Army from 1968-1970 at the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology (AFIP), Washington, DC. He completed a PhD in Botany/Phycology at The University of Connecticut, Storrs (1970-1973), and was a Professor of Biology at the University of North Dakota, Grand Forks (1973-1994). He was honored with the UND Foundation/B.C. Gamble Award for Individual Excellence in Teaching in 1990. Brother Shubert was President of the North Dakota Academy of Science (1985-1986) and received the Citation for Meritorious Service award. In 1991, he received the Alumni Achievement Award in recognition of career achievement in science, research, education, and service, from the College of Arts and Sciences, University of Missouri-Kansas City. He has been a major supervisor of MS and PhD students. Brother Shubert is a published author of 39 peer-reviewed papers, including one book and 13 book chapters. He is a recognized expert on green algae and phenotypic plasticity. He has given invited talks at over 50 international meetings in North America, Europe, and Asia. His current position is Editor-in-Chief of Systematics and Biodiversity. He is recognized as Fellow of the Royal Society of Biology (FRSB) for research accomplishments, and is also recognized as an Honorary member of the Polish Phycological Society. He is a proven and committed scientist, educator, and humanitarian.

Robert Garcia, Long Beach 1995

Brother Garcia is a Peruvian-American politician who is the current Mayor of Long Beach, California. He previously represented the First Council District, which includes large areas of downtown, parts of the Port of Long Beach, and some of the densest and most diverse urban areas in the nation. After being elected on April 13, 2009 to fill a vacated seat, Garcia became the youngest person, the first Latino male, and the first gay person of color to be elected to the Long Beach City Council. In 2014 Garcia ran for Mayor of Long Beach. He qualified for the runoff by finishing first in the primary election. He won the mayoral election on June 3, 2014 with 52.1% of the vote. Garcia is the first openly gay person to be elected Mayor of Long Beach. Previously as a City-Councilman, Brother Garcia authored or cosponsored more than 20 pieces of legislation, including the City's first Equal Benefits Ordinance, a ban on smoking at bus stops and at farmers' markets, a proposal to extend increased preferences to veterans in civil service hiring, and a broad-ranging arts initiative that eliminated restrictions on street performances and reduced the business license tax for artists and other home-based businesses. As mayor, Brother Garcia's focus has been on economic development, which has been exemplified by his revival of the inactive Economic Development Commission and acquisition of a $3 million innovation grant from Bloomberg Philanthropies. Garcia has focused on economic development, public safety and infrastructure, education, technology, and building housing. Garcia is the youngest Mayor in Long Beach history. He is also its first Latino Mayor.

Humanitarian Award

This award is presented to a Delta Chi member (undergraduate or alumnus), who, through his actions, exemplifies the ideals of Delta Chi and promotes the welfare of another person or persons.

Ashton Kutcher, Iowa 2000

In 2009, Brother Kutcher founded a non-profit organization dedicated to fighting human trafficking and child sexual exploitation. The NGO changed its name to Thorn in 2012 and focused on building mobile and Web-based tools to help further its efforts, while partnering with major tech firms and government agencies to expand the impact of its work. In addition to researching the circumstances that facilitate child sex trafficking, Thorn is also building tech to help fight it. In 2013, it worked with Twilio to create a shortcode that victims of sexual exploitation, as well as witnesses could text to seek help discreetly. From its launch through last June, the system enabled 3,808 conversations via text message that led to 3,631 substantive cases and 18 potential victims extracted. More recently, it launched Spotlight, a Web app that assists in trafficking investigations by helping sift through thousands of classifieds and forum posts advertising escort services from several sites. It uses machine learning to analyze data and identify suspicious ads that may involve minors, matching images and generating profiles so individual cases are easier to track.

Thorn announced in October 2016 that Spotlight had helped identify more than 6,300 victims of sex trafficking in the US, of which nearly 2,000 were children.

The tool is now used in all 50 US states by 780 agencies.

Now, the organization is gearing up to take on traffickers who operate on the Dark Web. It's building a tool called Solis, a tool to analyze activity on the underground network and help investigators uncover information about minors being exploited across the globe. It's currently being tested by Thorn's international partners, and it has already helped rescue 40 children.

L. Mark Hoerrner, Kennesaw 2007

Brother Hoerrner and his wife adopted a family motto long ago - Honorario Deus, Servo Alius, Vallo Pallens - Honor God, Serve Others, Defend the Weak. In many ways, Brother Hoerrner's approach to life is a reflection of the Four Pillars of Delta Chi.

When he joined Delta Chi in 2007, Brother Hoerrner had already been working with the Darfur Urgent Action Coalition in Atlanta, a group dedicated to helping provide aid, national legislative support and advocacy for the people undergoing the genocide in Sudan. That year, however, was a turning point year, as he and his wife joined author David Batstone in building a new non-profit, The Not for Sale Campaign. Not for Sale was an international organization dedicating to bringing awareness and aid to victims of human trafficking. Brother Hoerrner helped organize the state-by-state and regional structures of the Campaign; he set up an investigative project at Kennesaw State that researched human trafficking in Atlanta and the surrounding areas. Multiple undergraduate and graduate students were brought on board, and their work resulted in the handoff of multiple human trafficking cases to Homeland Security and FBI agents. Continuing to donate his time to the organization, Brother Hoerrner traveled to Peru and Cambodia to learn about international trafficking, assist rescue organizations in those countries, and bring that knowledge back to the U.S. As a result of his work with Not for Sale, Brother Hoerrner was able to help eight state directors develop their state operations. One of the people Brother Hoerrner recruited into the organization now runs End Slavery Tennessee, dubbed by law enforcement as "the most successful rescue and restoration group in the state." After leaving Not For Sale, Brother Hoerrner continued supporting multiple anti-trafficking organizations but didn't feel he was having the impact he truly wanted on the trafficking community. Realizing that women were key to a global solution, he and his wife started a non-profit retail company, Ethical Living, that sold products made by survivors of human trafficking or products that generated economic freedom in particularly trafficking-heavy areas of the world. He and his wife donated 100 percent of the profits to charities nationwide. Brother Hoerrner continued the fight against human trafficking, working to spread awareness at Kennesaw State and beyond, including The University of Georgia, Morehouse University, Georgia State's Law Program; addressed non-profits and law enforcement throughout Georgia and Tennessee; spoke at the Carter Center; and has been lauded for his work by Congressman John Lewis.

Valor Award

This award recognizes special acts of heroism on the part of any Delta Chi who puts his own life in peril. To qualify for this award, an individual must have rendered heroic service, well documented, above and beyond simply membership in the Armed Services of this country, where his actions place his own life in peril or potential peril while attempting to save the life of another.

James Donahue, ERAU 2016

Brother Donahue had just taken off from the airport in Deming, NM when he lost engine power. In situations like this, the standard protocol is to conserve altitude and airspeed and look for an emergency landing site ahead, but there were housing developments in front of him. Brother Donahue executed a 180-degree turn back toward the airport, in effect putting himself in greater danger, while preserving the safety of those on the ground. Brother Donahue suffered severe injuries as a result of the crash: a severed spinal chord, a broken sternum, a broken rib and a fractured ankle. He is paralyzed from the waist down, but has some feeling up his thigh. His act of valor clearly saved the lives of others.

Valor Award with Distinction for Uniformed Military Personnel

This award is applicable to uniformed military personnel of any country (Army, Marines, Navy, Air Force, Coast Guard, National Guard, and Reserve Members on Active Duty in Combat). This award applies to those who distinguish themselves conspicuously by gallantry and intrepidity, personal bravery or self sacrifice so conspicuous as to clearly distinguish them and must involve risk of life. Those who receive this award shall receive a certificate reading: the "Valor Award with Distinction".

Brandon Stone, Ohio State 2003

U.S. Navy SEAL Lieutenant Brandon D. Stone, Ohio State 2003, led a combined combat reconnaissance patrol conducting insurgent disruptive operations in the Upper Gereshk Valley, Helmand Province, Afghanistan. Stone's patrol came under heavy enemy fire from multiple directions, and he was immediately wounded from an improvised explosive device. Despite the immediate below the knee amputation of his left leg and shrapnel wounds throughout his body, LT Stone continued to direct his forces in order to suppress enemy fire and establish a security cordon. With total disregard for his own personal safety, his ability to lead while seriously wounded undoubtedly saved the lives of the remaining patrol members. Stone calmly gave situation updates to his second in command who immediately recognized Stone's clear intent: "Keep the men safe; win the fight, and come get me when you are done." For his heroic actions on 9 April 2011, LT Stone earned the Bronze Star Award with Combat Distinguishing Device "V" and a Purple Heart. Stone, retired from the Navy, attended Georgetown Law as a Tillman Scholar and graduated in 2015. He currently practices law in Alaska where he resides with his wife, Samantha, and their three children.

Alumnus Advisor Award

This award is designed to recognize an outstanding advisor for a chapter or colony for a specific, exceptional act of service during the previous academic year. The award will recognize individuals for their ability to strategically impact an undergraduate chapter or colony. A Faculty Advisor, "BB", live-in House Corporation advisor, ABT or House Corporation member may win this award.

Celebrates 50 Years

Fifty years is quite a milestone for any chapter to celebrate. For an organization to stick around, chances are that members have been doing something right for quite some time, exemplifying the values of Delta Chi, and putting in the work to strengthen chapter operations each day. This is a milestone that the Fullerton Chapter knows very well, as it celebrated it this summer in true Delta Chi fashion.

To start off their 50th anniversary celebration weekend, over 100 alumni and actives gathered at the chapter house for a welcome home barbecue. Many brothers had not been to or even seen what the house looks like in over 40 years. The following morning, a golf tournament was held at Anaheim Hills Golf Course with over 80 brothers participating. Brothers from graduating classes of 1967 through 2017 participated in a memorable day of golf and bonding. A group of brothers from 1966-1970 met up for lunch on their old stomping grounds, the 301 Club, to pick up where they left off.

Later that night, 350 Fullerton Delta Chis all came together at The Phoenix Club in Anaheim to celebrate the 50th Anniversary of being chartered. At this gathering, the Chapter was recognized by the mayor of Orange County with an award for 50 years of service, a plaque from the Greek Life Office for receiving the highest GPA of all fraternities on campus, as well as a specialized flag from the federal government that was flown on July 15th over the United States Capitol in honor of the 50th reunion. The remainder of the evening was filled with priceless memories from every initiated class since the chapter's founding. Dan De La Hunt, the organizer behind the massive reunion, said, "Working on this project for the past year has been a true labor of love. Reaching out to nearly 900 Fullerton brothers and sharing their stories will stay with me for the rest of my life. Being able to reconnect with brothers who have not seen each other in 40 to 50 years was heart-warming when you saw the expressions on these men's faces when seeing their fellow brothers after such a long time. I'd do it again in a heartbeat. I wanted to do something for my chapter out of love for these crazy guys that I'm proud to call brothers." Recent graduate, Tim VanThyne, also stated how, "The reunion was amazing due to its ability to connect all Fullerton Delta Chis in ways we have never been able to before," also stating that the reunion helped everyone realize that we still celebrate an uncommon brotherhood.

Over 40 Brothers made the long trip from out of state, the furthest being from New York. The biggest out of state showing of brothers came from Texas with eight brothers traveling from the Lone Star State. The Fullerton Chapter was overjoyed to have Brother Ed Evers, a founding father of our chapter, fly in from Louisville, Kentucky that day, to celebrate his 70th birthday, the same day as the 50th anniversary! Other notable attendees included Regent Chuck Wade, past Region 2 Regent Mike Woolbright, and "AA", Aaron Otto.

The Fullerton Chapter feels more united with its alumni than ever before following this milestone weekend, and it looks forward to many more years of such a rare and precious brotherhood. 🏡

“The connection the active chapter was able to share with brothers of different generations was truly amazing. Our bond is truly unlike any other.”

DELTA CHI

OPEN DOOR WEBINARS

— A Member Safety Education Series —

The Delta Chi Fraternity is proud to introduce and invite you to play an integral role in our continuing prevention education. Open Door Webinars, A Member Safety Education Series, is up and running! As the chapter/colony “A”, “F”, and AMC, your participation is key to reducing the risks that our initiated and associate members can face.

The topics will vary, but the theme is the same. Our mission is to provide chapter and colony leaders with the tools and resources to maintain a safe, secure, and values-based environment for our brothers to prosper during their acquisition of a sound education. Your mission, among many responsibilities, is to maintain the safety and security of the chapter house, facilitate educational sessions on risk management, maintain order, protect and care for our ritual materials, and monitor the behavior and conduct of our members.

These webinars will help guide you through your responsibilities and assist in making you more comfortable and knowledgeable in presenting and cultivating an environment aligned with the values of Delta Chi and the reduction of risk. 🛡️

“It is vitally important for the success and longevity of our Fraternity that all alumni volunteers attend the biennial Convention next summer. Not only will you be able to meet student members, but you will have the opportunity to meet fellow alumni and share your experiences with one another. At our last Convention, Delta Chi announced that one of the key strategic priorities would be alumni engagement. With that in mind, we are excited to introduce new programs and initiatives at the Convention that will further enhance your lifelong experience, as well as provide you with additional tools to work with the student leaders in our chapters and colonies. I hope to see you in Denver!”
