Our Mission is Clear.

In previous articles, I wrote about "Promoting Friendship", "Developing Character", and "Advancing Justice". Continuing on the core values in our Preamble, my final article of this series is on "Assisting in the Acquisition of a Sound Education". To me, this is the most obvious principle of a fraternity. It was the pursuit of higher education that introduced us to the brotherhood of a lifetime. When I think of my alma mater, The University of Texas, Delta Chi is one of my fondest memories, and both had a huge impact on shaping my academic experience. The same is probably true for you, with Delta Chi and your collegiate institution. I believe that college and fraternity are a symbiotic relationship, and each must rely on the other to teach and prepare you for life. There is a delicate balance that must be struck between your quest for academic and fraternal success, and too often our members forget about this balance!

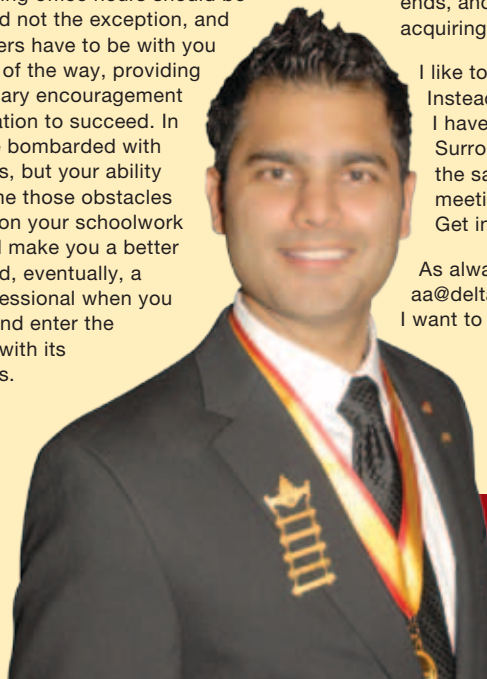

Our mission is clear. Delta Chi is to "assist in the acquisition of a sound education", yet a quick look at your Chapter's GPA in comparison to the all-men's average will demonstrate whether the word "assist" has been replaced with the word "impede." When members opt to not study for a test, or when they decide to not go to class, or when they are disruptive to the academic atmosphere, we do a disservice to the word "fraternity." Brotherhood is not about making the most of your time with your brothers at the expense of your pursuit of an education. Brotherhood is about our members challenging each other to excel in that pursuit. Study hours should not end at initiation, and the scholarship chair should not be a ceremonial position. The culture of a chapter can quickly change with members recruiting men who make grades a priority and rewarding academic progress at chapter meetings. Academic excellence is not about one finite position at the end of a race but the race itself. Going to class, studying hard, and attending office hours should be the rule and not the exception, and your brothers have to be with you every step of the way, providing the necessary encouragement and motivation to succeed. In life, we are bombarded with distractions, but your ability to overcome those obstacles and focus on your schoolwork is what will make you a better student and, eventually, a better professional when you graduate and enter the workforce with its distractions.

As I mentioned earlier, college and fraternity must rely on each other to prepare you for life. When I think about the acquisition of a sound education, I think about how our members have the opportunity to receive a well-rounded education. Character, Involvement, and Leadership are not taught in class but are derived from your experiences outside the classroom. This is why I believe that fraternity men receive a better education than other students if they challenge themselves to get the most out of their experience. Your academic work in the classroom should be complemented with your work within your chapter. Too many times we see brothers who fail to attend chapter meetings, or decide to not volunteer for a committee, or even refuse to step up into a leadership position. These decisions are tragic, because they equally impede the ability to acquire a sound education. Fraternity is responsible for educating our members and making them well-rounded contributors to society; but as in the classroom, we have to make the effort. I often do a presentation on "A Business Called Fraternity" at Regional Conferences, discussing my role as a business owner straight out of school. I parallel the experiences of running a chapter with running a business. As a computer science major, The University of Texas taught me how to learn. Delta Chi taught me how to lead. Those two experiences have enhanced my professional career. My story is similar to so many other alumni who made the most of their collegiate experiences. We learned how to manage our time and relied on the support of our brothers to succeed in the classroom. We learned how to work with others through our service on committees and interacting with fellow brothers in our chapter houses. Lessons of people and time management do not end at graduation. As alumni, we have the ability to continue our education by helping undergraduates find that balance in their lives. The learning process never ends, and Delta Chi continues to assist me in acquiring a sound education. What about you?

I like to end my articles with a challenge.

Instead of one challenge, however, I have several: Go to class. Study. Surround yourself with others who have the same desire to excel. Attend chapter meetings. Volunteer for a committee. Get involved. Succeed.

As always, I invite you to email me at aa@deltachi.org and share your thoughts. I want to hear from you!

THANKS FOR 10 YEARS OF SERVICE!

Karl Grindel Central Missouri '01

June 2011 marked Karl's 10th year of service to Delta Chi through a variety of roles on staff, most recently as Assistant Executive Director. On June 1st, Karl began work at Delta Upsilon Fraternity's Headquarters as the Associate Executive Director. Delta Upsilon was founded as a men's non-secret fraternity in 1836 at Williams College in Williamstown, Massachusetts. For Delta Upsilon, "non-secret" means its ritual ceremony may be viewed or read by non-members.

Before Karl's move to Indianapolis, IN, we asked him a few questions about his time on staff.

Why did you choose to work for Delta Chi after graduating?

I chose to work for Delta Chi, because I knew giving of my time to the Fraternity would enhance my ability to better serve others, whether as a volunteer for Delta Chi, or in my future work roles. The opportunity to work independently and autonomously while traveling extensively across the United States and Canada was too great to pass up, especially as a recent graduate. No other job provides the life experiences that traveling for the Fraternity does – none. The position also allowed me to stay involved for a longer period of time and support the efforts of the Fraternity. I grew tremendously as an undergraduate because of my fraternity experience; as a result of my professional time on staff, I experienced personal and professional growth beyond what I could have ever imagined anywhere else. Looking back, I can't believe I ever would have waived at accepting a job with Delta Chi.

"I grew tremendously as an undergraduate because of my fraternity experience; as a result of my professional time on staff, I experienced personal and professional growth beyond what I could have ever imagined..."

You've served in a variety of capacities in your time here. Do you think you can remember them all?

How has your sense of fraternity grown since your undergraduate days?

It has enlarged. Fraternity is more than your pledge brothers, your chapter, or even your fraternity. Fraternity is the sense of connection, commitment, and pride in something larger than yourself. Those I feel closest to have committed themselves to upholding a rigorous set of values and expectations for themselves, their organizations, and the fraternity/sorority community in general. My "fraternity experience" after my time in college has made me who I am.

What's one thing you'll always remember having worked for Delta Chi?

Do the right thing; never walk past a problem. The quality of your decision is based on the quality of your information. Do good for Delta Chi; I hope I have. The people. Delta Chi has one of the most committed staffs in the fraternal world. It is evidenced by the tenure of the Executive Director and support staff. You do not find many organizations with an Executive Director with more than 30 years experience and/or multiple administrative staff members with over 15 years of service (or over 40 years in the case of Marge Lee). Loyalty and dedication are important to our staff.

What would you say to those brothers who are interested in devoting time after graduation to working for Delta Chi?

Take the chance; seize the opportunity. You will be changed, and you will change the Fraternity. There is no other job that will place such importance on a new hire and recent graduate. You have the ability to truly devote yourself to a cause. But, with great benefit/privilege comes great responsibility. While you will undoubtedly experience things you never have before and visit places to which you will never return, working for Delta Chi is still your number one priority, your job. We cannot forget that.

TRI-STATE CHAPTER DEFYING THE TRENDS

*Alumni Weekend, April 2010
The exterior of the new house at 311 S. Darling St. is complete.*

While the housing market and overall economy in the United States has been suffering in recent years defied that trend and proudly opened their new 12,370 square foot house at the beginning of the 2010-2011 school year. The house, which sits on one acre immediately across the street from the main entrance to campus, sleeps 28 members and includes a full finished walkout basement, gender specific restrooms on all floors, and is fully handicapped accessible.

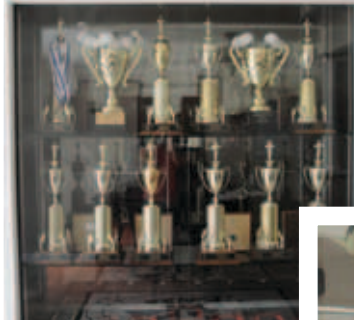

The chapter had owned two residential houses about a block north of the current location on Darling Street since the 1930's, dating back to its days as a small regional national fraternity, Beta Phi Theta. The "Betas" affiliated into Delta Chi as a colony on March 21, 1967 and around two decades later talk of building a new house began. At that time it was decided to remodel and upgrade the existing houses rather than build. The ABT and Housing Corporation, however, had the foresight to begin a fundraising campaign for an eventual new house in addition to undertaking the remodeling project. This was especially challenging given the fact that the college at that time only had an enrollment of about 1100 students. While enrollment is expected to be around 1800 when school opens for 2011-2012, Trine University, located in Angola Indiana, (the school name was changed in August 2008 but the chapter maintains the "Tri-State" name) continues to be one of the smallest campuses at which Delta Chi has a chapter. Eventually, in 2007, the idea of a new house again resurfaced. By then the building fund was well into six figures and the existing houses were over 100 years old (the 'Main House' was ironically built in 1890, and the 'Annex' was constructed in 1891).

The chapter had won seven President's Cups from the International Fraternity and was a well established group but the undergraduates and alumni both realized that in order to be able to support a new house the membership numbers would have to increase. The chapter had traditionally maintained membership in the mid-twenties, but, with the incentive of a possible new house, by the fall of 2009 the chapter more than doubled its size to 53 initiates.

Tri-State's main house, located at 112 S. Darling St. This house was originally built in 1890.

This trophy case separates the foyer from the chapter room and holds many of our awards.

Larry Dudley '71 donated this sandblasted Coat of Arms for the door to our chapter room.

Rich Kruger, Faculty Advisor and House Corporation member, addresses guests attending the groundbreaking ceremony during Alumni Weekend in 2009.

Sheri Trine donated an eight-foot pool table for our entertainment room. Larry Dudley '71 donated the stained-glass pool table light. Paddles from each associate member class, beginning in 1968, line the walls of the room.

At the same time, Trine University was in the midst of several major new construction and renovation projects and offered Delta Chi a land swap (which nearly doubled the lot size) and some other incentives in order to facilitate the eventual move and build. The University (along with Ralph and Sheri Trine) was extremely supportive of the new house in many ways, not the least of which was arranging for alumni contributions to go through the university. The project was also part of an overall plan for fraternity housing which has created a Greek Row on the east side of Darling Street which now boasts five Greek houses and compliments the overall physical renovation of the campus which has occurred in recent years.

The house boasts a combination of old and new. In addition to memorabilia, a few items were salvaged and moved from the old property, in particular the fireplace from the main house. Dave Braid '72 crafted custom tables from the woodwork in the old house and Larry Dudley '71 donated a beautiful etched glass Coat of Arms in the chapter room door and made a stained glass panel for the pool table light. The Building Corporation also included a huge marble Coat of Arms in the foyer floor and a large trophy case which houses the chapter's ten President's Cups (with room for more). Sheri Trine designed the interior and graciously donated many of the furnishings, tables, couches, chairs, credenzas, and included an eight foot pool table.

The new house was a true group effort between the alumni, undergraduates, ABT, Building Corporation, and the University; all provided enormous input. Many years of preparation went into the project and all parties involved contributed greatly to the success of the project. Tri-State can now boast of one of the newest and finest houses within Delta Chi and also is ready to meet the challenges of maintaining its membership, scholarship, philanthropy, financial management that will ensure more success and President's Cups for decades to come.

It has been just 18 years since The V Foundation for Cancer Research was founded by ESPN and Jim Valvano. And what significant work has been accomplished during that time! Since 1993, The V Foundation has raised more than $100 million and awarded cancer research grants in 38 states and the District of Columbia. Researchers have developed their laboratories and taken their science from the labs to the clinics with the help of funds raised by The V Foundation.

The V Foundation started with the dream of Jim Valvano, the passionate and committed former NC State basketball coach and award-winning broadcaster, as he battled cancer. Wanting to see the battle through to victory, Valvano recruited friends and family to lead The V Foundation in his quest to eradicate the disease that ultimately claimed his life. With a dire need for early developmental, critical-stage grant support, the Foundation was formed to assist the brilliant young researchers who will eventually find cures for cancer.

A relatively young organization, The V Foundation has a strong presence that belies its youth in the scientific community. The Foundation's Scientific Advisory Board, comprised of some of the top physicians and research scientists from prominent universities and cancer centers nationwide, assures that only the cancer research projects with the most potential are funded. Thus, grant recipients funded by The V Foundation have excellent reputations within the scientific community.

The V Foundation has set specific goals for performance, including, but not limited to:

- Maintaining the lowest overhead among cancer research fundraising organizations
- Continuing to increase funding for cancer research each year
- Monitoring performance of scientists through annual reporting

These goals will be met through our small staff, careful cost control and focus on fundraising efforts with a high return. Increases in fundraising will enable The V Foundation to award more grants. The Scientific Advisory Board utilized by The V Foundation incorporates a process by which the performance of competitive grants are reviewed and monitored.

Goals are measured through a number of methods. Third party charity evaluators, such as Charity Navigator, are an excellent resource for assessing fiscal responsibility. An annual review of financial progress monitors fundraising efforts overall and program by program. The Scientific Advisory Board provides a review and analysis of competitive grants. This Board is continually evaluated to improve coverage of specialties.

The V Foundation has an excellent track record for finding and funding elite young scientists. Between 1994 -- when the first V Scholar grants were awarded -- and 2003, The V Foundation awarded 109 V Scholar grants to promising young researchers nationwide to help them establish their laboratories. Of those V Scholars, 93 percent have received additional funding and are still working in independent labs. An additional five percent are currently working in related research.

The V Foundation also takes great pride in its fiscal responsibility and is proud to announce that it gives 100 percent of all new direct cash donations and net event proceeds to cancer research and related programs. Administrative expenses are covered by our endowment.

Delta Chi & The V Foundation

Philanthropic contribution is an essential function of the fraternal experience. One group of men on one campus has the opportunity to educate and impact those around them through both raising awareness and funds for a cause. When you combine the efforts of those men, with the men of other chapters on nearly 130 other college campuses, the result can be truly inspiring.

Since 2006, Delta Chi chapters and colonies have joined together to financially support the V Foundation for Cancer Research. By 2008, Delta Chi raised over $100,000 for the organization. In 2010, we presented a check for $130,000 at Convention in New Orleans, LA. We're currently working towards our new goal of raising $150,000 by August 2012.

While raising a significant amount of money can be an accomplishment by itself, we're exceptionally excited with how these funds are actually impacting the search for cures and treatments for cancer. All of our chapters' and colonies' philanthropy events, however large or small, have made it possible for two research teams to investigate prostate cancer and cancer development with the purpose of developing new detection methods and treatments.

So, as you're planning your next event to benefit The V Foundation or you're making a donation, know that your efforts and contributions are making a difference!

Hui Li , Ph.D
Assistant Professor of Pathology
in the Cancer Center
University of Virginia

Prostate cancer is the most common cause of cancer-related death among men over the age of 75 and is third most common among men of all ages.

Prostate cancer begins in the prostate gland, a small, walnut-sized structure that wraps around the urethra.

Dr. Li's research intends to study a newly identified gene fusion event that may lead to the development of prostate cancer. During this gene fusion event, labeled SLC45A3-ELK4, RNA* splicing may cause a dysfunctional trans-splicing process, ultimately leading to the formation of cancerous cells. So far, they've found a correlation between the amount of gene fusion product and the level of advancement of cancer.

In Dr. Li's Grant Application for The V Foundation, he commented on the potential outcomes of this research: "If successful, this project will not only shed light on the functions of SLC45A3-ELK4, but also provide additional examples of RNA processing as a novel way of gene regulation. Also, this study will have an immediate therapeutic impact in finding a diagnostic marker for prostate cancer."

Most organs in the human body consist of two types of cells: epithelial and mesenchymal. Epithelial cells line all body surfaces and cavities, such as the skin, outer organ layers, and GI tract lining. They function to protect the body from damage, keep out foreign substances, secrete fluid and/or absorb nutrients. A cancerous epithelial cell is referred to as "carcinoma." Mesenchymal cells are other tissue types in the body, such as blood cells, muscle cells, bone and fat. A cancerous mesenchymal cell is referred to as "sarcoma."

Dr. Mani's research investigates a new method through which cells become cancerous, called Epithelial Mesenchymal Transition (EMT). During EMT, epithelial cells take on characteristics of mesenchymal cells, which allows them to spread throughout the body in a manner similar to stem cells traveling to regenerate new tissue. Recent research has shown that cancerous cells can form during EMT. Because these cancerous cells imitate the behavior of normal human stem cells, traditional cancer treatments that target cancerous cells, not normal human tissue, have not been effective.

"My laboratory is working to identify EMT-associated biomarkers and potential therapeutic targets. We hope to develop new therapeutic strategies and drug combinations to eradicate EMT and cancer stem cell (CSC) properties in a range of tumor types. Thus, by targeting the EMT process, we believe that we can significantly reduce metastasis*-associated mortality," Dr. Mani explained.

"Specifically, we utilized the funds donated by Delta Chi to understand the dynamic nature of EMT and its role in metastasis," Dr. Mani added.

Metastasis – the spread of a disease from one organ or part of the body to another.*

DON'T

On May 22, 2011, as residents of the southwest Missouri town of Joplin sat down to dinner, an EF-5 tornado – the most powerful measurable – struck the town. In the aftermath, more than 150 people were killed by the storm, and a large portion of the community lay in complete ruin.

Within hours, Delta Chis from our two closest chapters joined Americans from across the nation in assisting in the relief efforts as the Joplin residents began putting their lives back together.

Missouri

With only 10 of the 45 active brothers in Columbia for the summer, the brothers of the Missouri Chapter wanted to directly assist in the relief efforts in Joplin. They started a Facebook event page but quickly had their work cut out for them when their Facebook appeal appeared to go viral with overwhelming student and community responses.

After calling stores, asking for donations, and accepting items from the general public, the Missouri Chapter's Turner Avenue Apartment Complex was completely lined with items.

"Everybody took an initiative to do what he could," Casey Berner, Missouri "D", said. "Everybody stepped up, whether it was sorting or counting or, just like this morning, helping out and moving things."

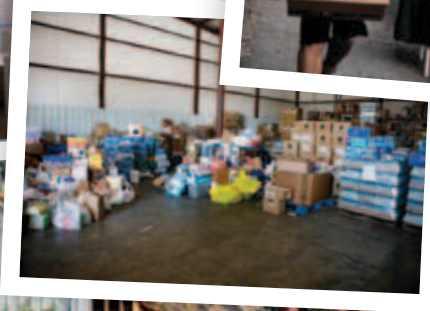

In addition to Berner, Chapter "A" Ryan Bueckendorf helped to spearhead the Mizzou D-Chi response effort.

"We were not expecting this amount of stuff to come in," Berner said. "Especially in the first two days, there were, I think, 5,000 different things."

Ultimately, members of the Missouri Chapter transported over 10,000 items to Joplin. The items were received by John Anderson, who runs an appliance warehouse in Joplin. On his own volition, Anderson, a member of Kappa Alpha Order, cleared out the warehouse space for donations after other drop sites closed their doors. Donated items included clothing, water, a Crock-Pot, a shelf and glassware, to name a few.

"We're just doing this because we can," Berner said. "We're fortunate enough to be still here and still have our homes and lives intact, so we're going to go down and help people who are, unfortunately, not in that current state."

Located about an hour east of Joplin in Springfield, the Missouri State Chapter jumped into action on the Monday morning following the Sunday night tornado. Brother Hector Salas began a Facebook group letting people in this area know that they could bring donations (food, water, clothing, accessories and money) to the Missouri State Delta Chi Chapter house.

The support started flowing immediately. Within 24 hours, people from the Greek community and surrounding area brought thousands of items and were contributing in any way possible. One anonymous member alerted the Springfield Chamber of Commerce and listed our Chapter site as an official donation site, which brought in even more people and items. Two days after starting our collections effort, the first caravan went out to deliver items. Seven brothers and multiple cars left to drop off items and volunteer in the Joplin area.

About 50 hours were contributed, and 75 square feet of items were dropped off. The following Friday and Sunday, more items were taken from Springfield to Joplin. Three weeks later, people in the area were still bringing by items, not having forgotten what happened. For the month following the tornado, brothers were making trips to Joplin about twice a week to donate items, help volunteer or both. The brothers have also received about $200 in donations from alumni to support this effort.

"We believe that great advantages are derived from a brotherhood of college and university men and appreciate that close association develops character, a trait that is necessary to make an impact on others' lives," said Becket Duncan, Missouri State Delta Chi "A". "One of the scariest parts of this is not only how close it was to us, but the fact that Joplin had its graduation that night, and many of the kids impacted were only a few years younger than us. It's great to see everyone coming together and helping out in any way, though."

As the Missouri Brothers were preparing to leave town, a Joplin resident and Missouri State sorority member said, "I just want to say thank you. You guys don't know how much this means to all of us suffering down here in Joplin."

GREEK RELIEF FUND

The residents of Tuscaloosa, surrounding cities, and University of Alabama students, faculty and staff have experienced a terrible tragedy. Dr. Witt, President of the University, has cancelled finals and postponed commencement ceremonies for graduating students (which include several Delta Chis) until August 6, 2011. I will correspond with you about the graduating brothers' information and future plans, as I did with the last graduating class last December, at that time.

While I, along with the rest of the community, am devastated, I am very thankful to report that no member of the chapter is hurt, and the chapter house has sustained no structural damage. Some brothers have lost their off campus housing, however. Many of the chapter members have or are returning to their hometowns now. We all want to help, but rescue officials have asked that all students leave the area so limited resources such as food and water will not be taxed by the student population and will be given to those who truly need it.

There are countless people who are injured and without homes. The Greek community is donating all its leftover food that would be used for next week to those communities affected. Any donations will certainly be welcome by those communities. Above all, please keep all those affected by the tornadoes in your thoughts and prayers.

God bless us all.

"Words cannot express the sublime essence of true brotherhood that flowed through the hall at Iron Lakes Country Club during the banquet," Michael Esposito '12 remarked, reflecting on the evening a Delta Chi Charter returned to Lehigh University.

On April 15, 2011, undergraduate brothers, alumni, and guests gathered to celebrate both a grand accomplishment and new beginnings. "Chartering was a step, not a goal," said Timothy Malacrida '10, the founding "A" of the Colony.

Aristotelis Loes '13, current "A", spoke at the banquet. "It put everything into perspective and makes it all feel incredibly important. An organization reaches a level of maturity when it charts, and only mature behavior is expected."

Delta Chi began at Lehigh as Rho Eta, a small yet ambitious local fraternity. By reaching out to future members and the surrounding community, Rho Eta became the Lehigh Chapter of Delta Chi in 1952, as its core values matched those of Delta Chi. The Chapter closed in 1998, but reopened as a colony under the direction of Delta Chi staff in 2009. Since the colonization effort, the brothers have raised their cumulative GPA by over a half-point, doubled their community service reach, and doubled their manpower.

Esposito writes about what he sees in store for the new Chapter and brothers:

We've already set our sights on future projects, plans, and prospective new members. While our Founding Father class has graduated, the spark of brotherhood will still shine brightly. Our charter may be the concrete foundation for a solid chapter, but we recognize that it is just one stone in an ever-unfinished house. We can, and will, strive to maintain an exemplary standard for all Greeks through challenging ourselves and holding one another accountable on a daily basis.

On April 30, 2011, brothers and guests gathered on the scenic Wrightsville Beach at the Shell Island Oceanfront Resort in North Carolina to celebrate the chartering of the Wilmington Chapter. Miles Washburn, "DD", noted, "The banquet was a great celebration of hard work, but there's lots of work ahead."

Since Colonization in 2006, the Wilmington Chapter has grown from a founding father class of 11 to over 70 total initiated brothers, with 32 current student members. Delta Chi is known on campus for its "Kelp Classic" surf competition and its "Viva la Skate" event, both raising awareness and funds for The V Foundation.

Founding Father and current "BB" John Jenkins '09, was excited to see the group charter. He added, "I'd like to see them become the largest group on campus within the next five years."

Overall, the banquet was a night to remember for all brothers and guests in attendance. Congratulations to the brothers of the Wilmington Chapter!

ABRACADABRA

Bhavik Vashi '13 "E"

Spring 2011 was one of the most successful semesters in our chapter's recent history. From continued scholastic achievement and representation in our school's government to a memorable registered party, multiple championship appearances in intramural sports to highly successful philanthropic activity, the Abracadabra Chapter of Delta Chi truly left no stone unturned in its ongoing efforts to be the best holistic fraternity that it can possibly be.

In terms of scholarship, for the fourth year in a row, we were recognized as having the highest overall grade point average of any Greek organization on campus.

Concerning involvement, for the ninth time in ten years, Delta Chi will be represented in the ASUC government. This year, Noah Stern '12 will step down as ASUC President and be replaced by two brothers, Joey Freeman '13 and Aviv Gilboa '13. Noah commented, "Delta Chis make leadership a priority - whether it is student government, campus organizations, Greek life, public service or academics. We breed a culture of men who care about the world around them."

Socially, we hosted an Egyptian-themed registered event called "Delta Cairo." We transformed our ground floor into the "Underworld." The second floor became the "Nile River," while the third floor was transformed into the "Afterlife." With a pyramid DJ-stand, sand, rugs, and many costumes, the night will surely be remembered by all who attended.

We also engaged in numerous philanthropic activities throughout the semester. In addition to holding our annual philanthropy soccer tournament, "Delta Chi World Cup," to raise money for The V Foundation, we also took first place in Pi Beta Phi's "Arrowband" dance competition. We also volunteered at the Live Oak Community Center, working together to repaint and restrain many of the common rooms at the center.

Lastly, we maintained our reputation as one of the most athletic houses on campus. This year, we were represented in the IFC intramural leagues for basketball, softball, ultimate Frisbee and soccer. Our team for softball went undefeated throughout the regular season, enacting the "mercy" rule in every single one of its games, and was able to make it to the championship game before suffering its first and last unfortunate loss. Similarly, our soccer team also made it all the way to the championship game in its league. Although we didn't win the championships, both seasons represent a high degree of athletic performance and something of which our chapter is very proud.

Spring 2011 was definitely a great semester in our history. With young leadership and an ever-growing number of brothers, we hope to continue this upward trend of growth and success and make fall 2011 even better.

ALABAMA

Joseph Ritchey '12 "E"

The Alabama Chapter witnessed our community become devastated by the recent tornadoes that rolled through the southeast on April 27th. The worst of the storm hit Tuscaloosa and, unfortunately, took the lives of three Alabama students. While everything that has happened is tragic, I am happy to report that our house did not sustain any damage, nor were any brothers hurt. Some brothers did lose their off-campus houses however. The university ended the spring semester early, canceling final exams, and all brothers have returned home safely.

The Greek community at Alabama, including the Delta Chi Chapter, has donated its leftover food to the people who have lost their homes. Any donations to the City of Tuscaloosa, AL and its communities would be graciously accepted. Please continue to keep our city, our brothers, and our community in your prayers as those who were hardest hit begin to rebuild their lives.

The Chapter initiated four men into the brotherhood this spring. We've also pinned two men who are legacies as associate members for the fall.

We participated in Greek God and Goddess and Songfest this spring. We swept the awards at Songfest with a barbershop-styled "Delta Chi Sweetheart" and "Total Eclipse of the Heart." We also have raised $1,200.00 for The V Foundation through our barbecues and other events. Finally, we've been working to assist the Heart and Stroke Foundation and have been named an official sponsor for their upcoming "APM" gaming tournament.

This spring saw an increased attendance at events, with nearly 90% of brothers attending everything we planned. We held a number of brotherhood events, including F1 go-kart racing, a sushi dinner with the women of Delta Gamma, bowling night with our sweethearts, and a paintball outing. We also held our annual spring formal at Apache Lake, AZ and enjoyed a day of boating, wakeboarding, horseshoes, dinner, and dancing. Our intramural participation has also been strong with brothers placing first in soccer, second in softball, second in Delta Gamma's "Anchor Slam," and first in Kappa Kappa Gamma's football competition. We also had a number of brothers participate in "Pat's Run," a 4.2-mile race through downtown Tempe.

We've been actively preparing for our first summer recruitment effort in several years. We have many brothers living in the house over the summer, and many more will commute to help out. We're also going to be working on fixing up our upstairs rooms. Our annual casino night fundraiser, planned by our Parents' Club and ABT, was a great success. Brothers, parents and alumni also bid on items in our silent auction, which featured donated items from local businesses. Our intramural softball team earned three victories before being defeated in the playoffs. Overall, this semester has been one of progress for us. We're committed to improving our fraternity experience and are looking forward to this fall!

We have many events planned for our spring quarter. With a close loss in the championship game last year, we're looking forward to watching our intramural soccer team play this spring. We'll also have over 70 brothers volunteering at the Wildflower Triathlon, which involves camping for a weekend, waking up at 5am each day, and running aid stations for the triathlon. We've also been busy preparing for our alumni weekend, which will feature golf, wine tasting, and a sit-down dinner. Our White Carnation Ball will surely be memorable, as we traveled to Las Vegas and stayed at the MGM Grand. We're also hoping to improve over last year's second place finish during Greek Week. We'll finish out the quarter with our Parents' Weekend event and our kickball tournament to benefit The V Foundation.

John Fiskell '12 currently serves as the Director of Logistics for Gators March for Babies, as well as the Vice President for the March of Dimes Collegiate Council.

Our house is now home to a new, permanent fence in the backyard, a light above the deck, changes to showers and ventilation, a new brick patio in front of the house, and new additions to the chapter room.

At our first father/son weekend, brothers invited their fathers to take part in an activity of their choice. Families played golf, went trap shooting, went bowling, or attended the nearby water sports lake. Afterwards, our own chef prepared a steak dinner for everyone. We're looking forward to making this a spring tradition in the coming years.

The Florida Chapter is relentless at achieving excellence in all areas of university and professional life. Our list of accomplishments will never stop growing, helping Delta Chi's name and reputation get better and better each semester. Viva la Delta Chi, and as always, Go Gators!

To aid our scholarship efforts, Alex Daguanno '13, our scholarship chairman, implemented a rebate system and a twice annual raffle for brothers earning at least a 3.5 GPA. Through these incentives and our brothers' hard work, our chapter now boasts a GPA above the all-fraternity average. At the same time, our brothers have been involved in a number of activities and organizations outside of the Fraternity, which both promotes our chapter and creates a more meaningful fraternity experience. Also, our Intramural Broomball team brought home a championship this year. With teammates Sigma Kappa and Omega Gamma Pi, we qualified for the "Sing" competition during Greek Week. In addition, we also partnered with Delta Phi Epsilon to raise money for the American Cancer Society during Relay for Life.

MICHIGAN STATE*Joseph Hale '13 "E"*

Brothers also contributed over 700 hours of service to our community through events such as sandwich-making for a local soup kitchen, monthly Adopt-A-Blocks, and "Pitt Project Oakland." We also held a brotherhood retreat at a nearby YMCA camp, where we helped move firewood, scrub away graffiti, and clean up cabins in preparation for the summer. To celebrate the 6th anniversary of our

Every year as a part of our homecoming, there are a series of events that we take very seriously. It has become a huge tradition for us to go all out in participating in "Hobo Week" festivities. Our chapter has won the Hobo Week Spirit Cup all but two years that we have been on campus, and that tradition continued this past year. We were very pleased to welcome the cup back to our house and are especially pleased that our mascot, Mitch the python, has a place to sit for our composite yet again. Also, thanks to a generous donation from one of our alumni, we have been able to completely remodel our middle bathroom in our house.
