Summer Break!

In the previous three issues of the Quarterly, I wrote about Promoting Friendship, Developing Character, and Advancing Justice. Continuing on my journey through our Preamble, I had written a piece on our Acquisition of a Sound Education. Due to the timing of this summer issue, I opted to hold the article until the next issue, when the majority of our undergraduates were back at school from summer break. Summer break. How I miss those words! Summer break – an opportunity to recharge your batteries, make some extra money, travel, glance into your profession with an internship, spend time with family, and do whatever you want to do. Over the summer, the majority of our undergraduates leave our chapter houses, and surprisingly, many of them put Delta Chi “on hold” until they return in the fall, when bonds are renewed and their commitment is re-energized. Without regular chapter meetings and a place to congregate, fraternity experiences are a bit different during the summer. In a way, many alumni have been on “summer break” from Delta Chi after graduation as well.

This is very natural. College offered us the ability to be in one place, at one time, sharing similar experiences. We associated “campus” with “Delta Chi.” But although college introduced us to Delta Chi, friendship is what keeps us together. So, as “AA”, I request that you make an effort to end your “summer break” from Delta Chi. It is time to renew those bonds and re-energize your commitment to your fraternity brothers. On the back cover is a list of Alumni Chapters; is one near you? If not, would you be interested in starting one? Your fond memories of Delta Chi from your collegiate days should not end after leaving campus. The joy of fraternity continues if you will let it be a priority in your life once again. Email me at aa@deltachi.org – I want to hear from you. Have fun!

A Look Ahead...

In the next issue of the Quarterly, look for my article on Education. Writing for you has been an experience that I wished to share with the rest of the members of the Executive Committee.

In this issue, please take the time to read the article by your “DD”, Miles Washburn, and in two issues, an article from your “CC”, Bill Tallman.

Enjoy!

Calling All Alumni...

I was a Delta Chi from the Massachusetts Chapter....no... wait...I still am a Delta Chi from the Massachusetts Chapter. Don't you hate when someone says he was a Delta Chi? Does something happen after graduation that makes a brother no longer a brother? Absolutely not! In fact you will spend more time as an alumnus Delta Chi than as an undergraduate Delta Chi, so let's make the most of it.

My first question is, have you gone through the alumni ceremony?

If not, do it! All the RLCs conduct the alumni ceremony, and it is also offered at the international convention. (We will talk about that in a minute.) Many local alumni chapters also conduct it. Just contact one of them, and find out when it is being offered.

Now that I have brought up the topic of alumni chapters, are you a member of one (second question)?

They are a great way to meet other alumni brothers from a variety of chapters and regions, but most importantly, the alumni chapters are a great resource to offer support to the undergraduate chapters and colonies. Many alumni chapters often have a variety of social activities that you can participate in and further your brotherhood experience. Most often they are family friendly as well.

Here is my third question. Are you involved with a local chapter or colony? We currently have 129 chapters/colonies, and all of them welcome alumni support. There are so many things you as an alumnus brother of Delta Chi can do. There are multiple support roles for chapters/colonies: “BB”, ABT member, House Corporation member, mentor for an undergraduate, donor to the Delta Chi Educational Foundation, donor to The Delta Chi Fraternity or donor to the local chapter/colony. I'm sure you can think of a few more. The role of the alumnus is vital in the future growth and success of Delta Chi.

MILES WASHBURN, “DD”

For the fourth question, have you been to an RLC or convention lately? They are amazing experiences. Delta Chi is offering an Alumni Track Program, ATP, at the convention geared directly to you, the alumnus, and any graduating seniors who want to get involved right away. We are also creating a smaller version for the RLCs. Regions IV and IX offered them this past spring during their RLCs. These alumni track programs offer information on how communicate with undergraduates, form an alumni chapter, and much more. Now when you, the alumnus, come to an RLC, the programming is not geared just for the undergraduate.

Unfortunately, every year a few chapters or colonies close. Frequently it is a result of some bad decisions being made - parties with alcohol, hazing or any number of other issues. Often these troubled chapters or colonies didn't have the much needed alumni support to help guide them and advise them toward better decisions.

On the flip side, our strongest chapters generally have a very strong alumni support base that is active and engaged in the chapter operations and activities. The relationship, which is critical, between the undergraduates and alumni is strong and very meaningful. Both communicate well with each other, and this relationship makes the chapters stronger.

With over 65,000 living alumni, imagine what a difference we alumni could make with our involvement with our chapters and colonies. Often we alumni wait for the chapter or colony to contact us to get involved. Perhaps we need to take a more active role in reaching out to them. Let's offer our time and knowledge to them. Sometimes it is hard for an undergraduate to ask for help; let's make it easy for them by contacting them and offering to get involved.

Remember when you were an undergraduate? Remember when you thought, “Where are the alumni?” Here is YOUR chance to make a difference. Show up. Go to a meeting. Volunteer your time. Help them to make good decisions with your advice and experience to back you up.

YOU are a Delta Chi, and the undergraduates need your support. So here is my last question for you...

What are you going to do now to get involved with Delta Chi?

Another weekend of leadership training for Delta Chi is in the books...

Over 150 attendees, facilitators and staff set foot on the grounds of Saint Meinrad for the sixth consecutive year. Below is a collection of photos from the event!

How does Delta Chi pay for all of this?

The Academy is available, free of charge, to all chapter/colony “A”s of the Delta Chi Fraternity. The Academy is made possible due in part to a grant of $71,500 from the Delta Chi Educational Foundation. This grant is funded by two generous donors, Steven Michels, Marquette '87, and Donald LaPlante, Southern California. The Fraternity incurs the remainder of the costs... that support comes from members like you!

“The experience was unforgettable, being able to gather with all the leaders of Delta Chi to share knowledge and network was possibly one of the best opportunities I have ever had.” ~ Marshall Hess, North Alabama

“The “A”s’ Academy challenges every participant to live the values of Delta Chi and to be the change needed to improve our fraternity.” ~ Dick McKaig, Ball State '66

“It was a watershed weekend because it made random strangers easier to talk to plus provided the confidence and advice to become a better person as well as a more efficient leader.” ~ Michael T. Gibson, West Virginia Tech

What is Saint Meinrad?

The Saint Meinrad Archabbey, Seminary and School of Theology is one of 11 archabbeyes around the globe and continues to foster the monastic rhythm of prayer, work and lifelong learning. It is located on what is affectionately known as the “Holy Hill” and can be found on the map in St. Meinrad, IN.

WHAT IF EVERYTHING COULD TASTE LIKE BACON?

The birth of Bacon Salt is one mixed with chance, luck, and creativity. The first round of financing ($5,000) came from Dave's son's win on America's Funniest Home Videos®. With financing secured, a larger question loomed: How does one make everything taste like bacon? After many failed attempts at combining table salt and bacon drippings, Dave and Justin turned to Food Science for their answer. With their new seasoning salt, their next challenge was to find people to actually buy their product. Dave tapped into MySpace, marketing to thousands of users who had "Bacon" in their profile. They also utilized Facebook and viral videos to promote the product. Bacon Salt quickly made a name for itself, one part novelty and one part healthy alternative. In fact, Bacon Salt is vegan friendly.

Since the company's launch, J&D's products have been featured on Oprah, The Daily Show with Jon Stewart, and countless websites. To launch their second product, Baconnaise, they staged a "Bacon vs. Mayonnaise" wrestling match in the basement of a Seattle bar. They recently partnered with Jones Soda to produce Bacon Soda. Today, many of the nation's largest grocery chains, including Kroger and Walmart, carry Bacon Salt and Baconnaise. On their website, you can find other niche products, such as Bacon Ranch, Bacon Gravy, Bacon Lip Balm, and Bacon Pop [microwave popcorn].

Dave currently lives in Issaquah, WA with his wife, son and daughter.

Dave Lefkow, Iowa '95 (right), set out with his co-worker Justin Esch to answer that question. Co-owners of J&D Foods, these IT consultants settled in Seattle to build a company around America's most beloved meat: bacon.

An interview with

Paul Giblin Arizona '85

Pulitzer Prize-Winning Journalist

How did you get into the journalism profession? Back at The University of Arizona, I worked for the Arizona Daily Wildcat. Once I graduated, I worked for newspapers in New Mexico, Arizona, Hawaii, and then Arizona again. I worked for the East Valley Tribune in metro Phoenix for 14 years.

Tell us a bit about why you pursued the "Reasonable Doubt" project. Immigration really touched everything in Arizona. A lot of the debate was essentially bumper sticker slogans. There wasn't any depth or real understanding of the issue among most people who were discussing it. Sheriff Joe Arpaio proclaimed himself as the champion of illegal immigration enforcement, but after talking to him about it, it was clear that even he didn't know the specific results or consequences of his program. No one did. My reporting partner Ryan Gabrielson and I decided to find out. Ultimately, we just wanted to elevate the conversation in Arizona.

Winning a Pulitzer is quite an honor. How'd you find out? I was covering a U.S. Senate field hearing in Phoenix at the time. I was sitting in the front row when my cell phone kept ringing over and over. Despite my efforts to silence it, Senator Joe Lieberman kept giving me dirty looks. So I snuck out into the hallway and my phone rang again. It was my buddy Mike Weiss, an old editor of mine. He said, "I guess I'll be seeing you in New York." When I asked him what he was talking about, he broke the news.

How does one celebrate winning a Pulitzer? I had no idea how to celebrate. I just knew I wanted to throw a party – that night! I lost track of how many people I invited over. I served cheeseburgers at my house and invited a ton of people over. They all brought champagne. So we had cheeseburgers and champagne all night long. I think everyone from the newspaper industry in Phoenix came over that night.

How do you display your Pulitzer? One day I was downtown walking by the Arizona Mining Museum. In the gift shop, they had some crystals on spinning, multi-colored light-up stands. I asked the gift shop attendant how much they cost and she thought I meant the crystals. I bought two light-up stands – one for my reporting partner and one for me. It's very Spencers' Gifts and '70s chic, but it's great. So the Pulitzer, which is Tiffany crystal, spins around, shooting colored beams of light across my house. It's a bit disco inferno, a bit alien abduction.

So, what are you working on now? I work in the Public Affairs Office of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Afghanistan as a civilian employee. I'm based in Kabul. I travel around the country, mostly by helicopter, and write articles about the reconstruction efforts.

Are you armed out there? I'm only armed with a tape recorder and a notepad.

How do you see the health of the journalism industry today? Today, there's the conflict of fact-based journalism versus opinion-based journalism. We have a lot of opinion masquerading as fact-based journalism, and that's turning a lot of people off to journalism in general.

Tell us a bit about your Delta Chi experience. I joined Delta Chi as a sophomore. A guy named Bob Gray was my roommate. We'd stay up on Wednesday nights to listen to the "Virgin Vinyl" show at midnight, which played new wave songs. We'd tape the show and then listen to the songs in our room all week long. People thought we were crazy.

What's one of your best memories from your undergraduate days? I was having breakfast one morning and Bob Gray said, "Hey, I'm going down to Rocky Point in Mexico with twelve sorority women for spring break." Naturally, I volunteered to go with him. He told me that a Chi O named Sandy would pick us up the next morning at eight o'clock. We stayed out late that night and woke up five minutes before eight. We fell out of our bunks, ran into the showers, threw on some clothes, and dashed downstairs. A car pulled up and a pretty brunette said, "Hey, are you guys Paul and Bob?" We said, "Yes!" and we jumped into her car. I married her later on. We've been married now 23 years.

A BROTHER. A PATRIOT!

Jason Dvorkin, Syracuse '04, hardly ever watches a football game on television, because he's directing everything you see at Gillette Stadium during New England Patriots games and New England Revolution soccer matches. Dvorkin currently serves as the Director of Event Presentation for both teams in Foxborough, Massachusetts and has almost seven years of experience and memories. He also has one Super Bowl ring.

radio and television shows along with the in-stadium audio-visual experience.

Dvorkin manages everything you hear and see during a game in the stadium. He shared with us, "The average person sitting in the stands would never know how scripted each game really is. I have to be prepared to think on the fly, though. If a bad play for the Patriots happens right before a break, I can't send the cheerleaders out there to do a routine. The challenge with any live event is that there are no second chances. I have to be very familiar with the rules of the game. Otherwise, I could end up doing something that could get the organization fined.

"Ultimately, I work to make sure we're delivering a product to the fans in the stands that is more authentic than what they can get on television. I also try to give the team that twelfth-man, or home field, advantage," Dvorkin adds.

As a marketing major at Syracuse University, Dvorkin sought to prepare himself for a potential career in sports. After working in the Marketing Department for Syracuse Athletics, he landed a summer internship with the Patriots. Through continued communication with key individuals within the organization during his senior year, Dvorkin received a phone call about a job opening a few days after graduation.

"I really created my own path," Dvorkin recalls. After initially working in marketing, he soon learned radio production and was promoted to manage the team's

What advice would you give to those seeking a career with a professional sports team?

JD: It usually helps most to try to either get an internship doing anything with sports, on campus or with a minor-league team, or to look at your experience in terms of how that would translate to a professional sports franchise. You have to learn the business side of the job, though. Whether your team is 16-0 or 0-16, you still have a job to do. Also, if the only reason you want to go into sports is because you're a huge sports fan, you may be doing it for the wrong reasons. When your hobby becomes your job, it's not a hobby anymore. If you can learn the "business" of sports and put aside your affinity for the team when necessary, you can be successful in this business.

Tell us a bit about your Delta Chi experience at Syracuse!

JD: My girlfriend, who is now my wife, told me about these men who came to her sorority's chapter meeting talking about the opportunity to build a new organization on our campus. She said I should meet with them, as they didn't seem like typical "frat guys." I was really impressed. I joined Delta Chi during my sophomore year as a Founding Father of the Colony. I liked the opportunity to build something from the ground up and leave my mark on campus. I was the first "B"; then I served as "A", AMC, Social Chair, and Recruitment Chairman. I really enjoyed my term as AMC, as I was able to teach our newest members all that I had learned since joining.

THE BUCKEYES ARE BACK!

On Saturday, January 22, 2011, undergraduate brothers and alumni gathered to celebrate a new addition to the walls of the Ohio State Delta Chi house: a new charter. Since 2004, many men have worked to elevate the Colony's operations to exceed the Fraternity's chartering requirements. This spring, a new charter secures a place for over 100 years of brotherhood on Ohio State's campus.

Erik Hail, "A", added, "It has been an amazing journey that I will never, ever forget."

The Ohio State Chapter was originally chartered on May 30, 1902. The Chapter was re-chartered on May 12, 1989. The Chapter ceased operations most recently on November 14, 2003 after losing campus recognition. A Delta Chi expansion team returned to campus the following fall to bring Delta Chi back to campus.

At the banquet, the chartering proclamation was presented by R.C. Damle, "AA", with the assistance of Steve Bossart, Past "AA", and Tom Horowitz, Retiring "AA". Paul Bohlman, Ohio State '70, was recognized for his induction into the Order of the White Carnation at the 2010 International Convention. Fifteen undergraduate brothers were also recognized for earning at least a 3.25 GPA during the fall quarter.

Chris Heiberger, Ohio State '88 and "BB" of the new Chapter, commented on the occasion, "To obtain your charter means that you've accomplished goals that lay the groundwork for the future sustainability and success of your fraternity. In a sense, it's leaving your legacy."

We’ve always prided ourselves on our academic performance and achievements. This year, we were once again recognized for earning the highest GPA among fraternities and sororities on campus. In addition, we had four brothers accepted into the prestigious HAAS Undergraduate School of Business. One particular brother has taken our tradition of excellence to an unprecedented level. After years of hard work, Michael Waks ’11 was accepted into Harvard Law School and will begin his legal studies there this fall. His achievement has inspired us to push ourselves further.

We’re focusing on improving our operations this year. Last fall, we had an outstanding semester with our recruitment efforts, alumni relations, and active member retention. Our GPA is also on the rise. This spring, we plan to continue building our image with the addition of four associate members and more philanthropic involvement.

Recently, two Kappa Delta Sorority sisters were involved in a serious car accident that took the life of the driver, Michelle Bonasera. Andree’ Maxwell, a close friend to many of the brothers and one of the passengers, sustained significant injuries and is completing rehabilitation in Spokane, Washington. We teamed up with the women of Kappa Delta to execute a coin drive to help with the medical bills for both families. Through our efforts, Kappa Delta and Delta Chi raised over $7,500. We’re continuing our effort to raise even more funds and hope brothers will keep Michelle, Andree’, and their families in your thoughts and prayers.

Our members are currently focused on building our public image. We’ve been working to build personal relationships with our Greek Advisor and the Dean of Students. We recently made a banner that stated “Good Luck on Your Finals! From the Men of Delta Chi,” to gain exposure on campus and also improve the image of Greek organizations on campus.

We worked hard to plan our annual Byron Cherry Invitational golf tournament, which occurred on April 30, 2011. Brother Cherry lost his life as an undergraduate in a tragic car accident. Since his passing, we’ve hosted this commemorative outing to honor his spirit, with our funds this year going to the V Foundation. Our donations came from mulligans, team fees, sponsored holes, and regular donations.

After an extensive reorganization, we’re focused on getting back on the path to success. We’ve been planning new community service projects with local associations and schools. We’ve also been planning a brotherhood trip to boost morale and bring the members together. We are confident that, by next fall, our newfound motivation will allow the Chapter to be reborn in accordance with the values of the Fraternity.

This spring, we’ve pledged over 700 community service hours and have committed $3,000 to the V Foundation. We’re getting involved with local trash pickups and well as a community service event with St. Luke’s Children’s Hospital. This spring marks our 10th anniversary since re-chartering, so we’ve been working to send commemorative postcards to our alumni.

While one hopes that life’s many turns will always be full of enjoyment and excitement, we’ve learned that tragedy can strike at any time. The mother of one of our brothers is currently battling a life-threatening fight with cancer. We’ve dedicated our annual coin drive to her and have donated the proceeds to the V Foundation. In total, we raised over $1,000.

Our annual “Miss Aphrodite” event was held on April 7, 2011. This event consisted of a talent show, during which one woman from each sorority competed in a number of skits and dance routines. Money was raised through ticket sales to all of Greek Life and a “Penny Wars” competition. All proceeds from the event went to the V Foundation. “Miss Aphrodite” has been one of the biggest events of the year within the Greek community, bringing everyone together for a good cause and fun night!

When Kyle Waletich, Oregon State ’08, visited us as a Leadership Consultant, he challenged us to work harder towards the goal of chartering. When he asked our 11 members why we haven’t chartered yet, we sat in an awkward silence, because we didn’t know to respond. He told us, “You haven’t chartered because you haven’t decided to be a chapter yet. You haven’t decided to be great yet.” He then helped us re-evaluate our assumptions about recruitment and operations.

In less than one year, we’ve grown from 11 men to almost 30 members who now do far more work than talking. We have operating committees, are working to be involved on our campus and in our community, and now have a functional ABT and House Corporation. We’ve also moved into our first house. For many of us, the progress we’ve made seemed so out of reach only one year ago. While we still have many things to work on, we’re grateful for Kyle’s help and wanted to take this opportunity to thank him. Thank you for helping us finally decide to be great!

Greg had the following to say of the ceremony: “I’m proud to say that I am, in part, responsible for keeping a cherished Delta Chi tradition alive at our Chapter. While it appears as though I’m the second or possibly third brother of our Chapter to hold a Lavalier Ceremony, no current active member was around to witness those ceremonies. This special ceremony really allowed me to share the bond and love I feel from Delta Chi with someone who I truly love and respect and want to spend the rest of my life with. WEST CHESTER 32 3.04
Mitchell Paulinho “E”

Throughout February, we’ve raised $393 by selling 131 shirts to benefit the Susan G. Komen fund. Each shirt is pink and says “I Heart D Chi.” Our efforts raise awareness for breast cancer and also serve as a way for more people to see “Delta Chi” on campus.

WEST GEORGIA 24 2.50
Andrejs Malovs “E”

We currently rank second among fraternities academically and have been approved to move into a larger on-campus house next year. We’re looking forward to new goals and accomplishments!

WEST VIRGINIA TECH 12 N/A
Garrett Goosman “A”

We’re focused on raising more money than ever before for the V Foundation. Through working home football games at Martin Field, we’ve already raised over $200. We’ve also been planning a “Quarter Mile of Quarters” event, a dunking booth event, and a “Pie-A-Chi” day.

WESTERN MICHIGAN 19 3.01
Jared Johnson “E”

Last fall, we ranked first among fraternities academically. We’ve also recently signed leases to move onto Fraternity Village Drive next year. On March 26, 2011, we hosted our annual “Powder Puff” football tournament to raise money for the V Foundation.

WHITEWATER 28 2.70
Josh Pomerence “E”

We raised over $500 last semester during our “Buy-A-DChi” fundraising event, where women bid on brothers for date nights full of dinner and dancing. We’d like to thank the women of Delta Zeta, Sigma Sigma Sigma and Alpha Sigma Alpha for their attendance and participation at the event!

WILLIAM & MARY 35 3.01
Reid Francis “E”

We celebrated our chartering anniversary on April 2, 2011 with an afternoon barbecue and games. The event allowed for our brothers to meet our alumni. After the barbecue, we held a semi-formal dinner, featuring a slideshow and tribute to our senior brothers.

Louisiana Tech 43 2.70
Jared Harper “E”

We’ve recently unveiled plans for our new chapter house. We’re confident the new facility will be competitive with top houses across the country. We would like to thank our House Corporation, Alumni Board of Trustees, the Delta Chi Housing Committee, and all of our donors involved with the project. We will be hosting a House Unveiling Ceremony in September, following the completion of construction. Our 25th anniversary will also fall during our Homecoming Banquet this October.

WILMINGTON 32 2.56
Michael Kanupp “E”

We’ve been eagerly preparing for our chartering banquet, which was held on April 30, 2011. Look for a feature story on Wilmington’s Chartering Banquet in the Summer/Fall issue of the Quarterly.

WINDSOR 20 N/A
Ackel Cupid “E”

This quarter, we celebrated our 40th anniversary with many brothers and alumni gathering to share stories and reminisce about times enjoyed in Delta Chi. We have also volunteered at a local community garden on campus. We’re looking forward to our upcoming formal.

Rhode Island Hosts “Miss URI Pageant”

Ryan Elkas “E” 33 N/A

On March 11, 2011, we held our second annual “Miss URI” Pageant, with over 300 people in attendance and eight women competing. Jay Salafia ’12 planned most of the event and has used his connections to have our event recognized and added as a qualifier for the “Miss Rhode Island” Pageant. Proceeds from the event are split between scholarships for the winners, the Chapter, and the V Foundation. We also held a 50-50 raffle at the event, where all proceeds went to the V Foundation.

Paul GIBLIN

Arizona '85

Paul GIBLIN, a Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist, currently serves as a public affairs specialist for the Army in Kabul, Afghanistan. He is assigned to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and stationed at the Qalaa House compound, where he has served since November 2009.

Giblin, 48, travels across Afghanistan to report on the U.S. and coalition forces' reconstruction efforts in the war-torn country. He has written about an undercover investigation into a multi-million-dollar fraud case, anti-corruption efforts, terrorist attacks on reconstruction projects, programs to teach job skills to under-educated Afghan workers, and an effort to erect solar-powered streetlights in a capital city that has no electrical grid, among other topics.

Before joining the Army as a civilian employee, Giblin worked for more than 24 years as a reporter, columnist, editor and bureau chief for newspapers and other news organizations in Arizona, Hawaii and New Mexico. He also was a regular contributor writing about Arizona topics for The New York Times from 2002 through 2009 and for The Dallas Morning News from 1993 through 2005.

Working with a small group of associates, Giblin co-founded the subscription-based Arizona Guardian news service in January 2009. The Intranet news organization provides non-partisan coverage of state government and politics, a sector that had been de-emphasized by traditional news organizations during the current recession. The Guardian has received significant notice by journalism magazines and other publications as one of the pioneers of the emerging realm of "new media." Giblin relinquished day-to-day involvement with the Guardian when he went to Afghanistan.

Giblin worked in various capacities with the East Valley Tribune in metro Phoenix from January 1995 through January 2009. Giblin and fellow reporter Ryan Gabrielson produced a five-day investigative series that won the 2009 Pulitzer Prize for local reporting and the George Polk Award for justice reporting, among other national, regional and state awards. Giblin and Gabrielson spent six months examining Maricopa County Sheriff Joe Arpaio's illegal immigration enforcement operations and their resulting assault on U.S. civil rights and their costs to county taxpayers. They reviewed thousands of pages of public records and interviewed nearly 100 law enforcement officers, smugglers, U.S. senators, municipal officials, crime victims, statisticians and community leaders, among others. The FBI has since started its own investigation in the sheriff's operations.

Giblin served for years as the federal affairs reporter at the Tribune and covered the state's 2008, 2006 and 2004 U.S. Senate and House races and immigration issues among other topics. Among other highlights, he exposed a police official's illicit drug use; uncovered improper plans to build an NFL stadium in the flight path of Phoenix Sky Harbor International Airport, threatening flight safety; elicited a written confession from a murder suspect; documented the lives of feral paint-sniffing children living under the U.S.-Mexico border; exposed racism at a public gym; and many other topics.

Giblin was a frequent guest on Horizon, a Phoenix-based TV news talk show from 1998 through 2009. He also appeared as a guest on CNN, C-Span, NPR, WNYC radio and BBC radio, plus several Phoenix-area broadcast outlets, to discuss immigration, Sen. John McCain's 2008 presidential campaign and other topics.

He is a graduate of the University of Arizona. He and his wife Sandra, an architect and fellow UA graduate, live in Phoenix with their son Tim. Their eldest son Casey is a freshman at UA.

Giblin's personal Web site is www.paulgiblin.net and he encourages anyone who would like to contact him about future jobs opportunities or anything else to write him at paul@paulgiblin.net.
